RUSSIAN MOVE UPSETS QUEBEC PARLEY'S CALM

Conferees Scurry to Find Answers.

A 24 Hour Boat Ride

QUEBEC, Aug. 22 (AP).—A boatload of allied military planners from the big staffs at the conference here returned tonight from a 24 hour voyage down the St. Lawrence river and up the Saguenay. There were 250 in the party. An information official said they traveled on a river ship equipped with conference rooms and staffed with secretaries and other office workers so that they could continue their labors afloat.

QUEBEC, Aug. 22.—Josef Stalin, in absentia, overshadowed the world figures at the Roosevelt-Churchill war conference here today—overshadowed the conference itself.

Until it became known that he had replaced Ambassador Maxim Litvinov in Washington with a relatively unknown representative, considerable credence had been given here to the story that the conference was coming to a triumphant conclusion pleasing alike to the conferees and the Russians.

But Stalin's sudden action changed that rosy view. Many saw the switching of diplomatic representatives as notice by Stalin that he is displeased with the conference's decisions.

Stimson and Soong Shaded.

So it was that the arrival of Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson by airplane attracted less attention than might have been expected this morning. And the coming of T. V. Soong, Chinese foreign minister, by plane this afternoon for announced discussions of intensified war on Japan, strengthened the theory that Stalin is piqued by the prospect of less aid to Russia and more to China.

Hence it was argued that Stalin's spectacular action in relieving Litvinov emphasized the cooling off of relationships with the Anglo-Americans, and being timed when the conference was drawing to a close, called world-wide attention to his protest against three major items:

1. The decisions made here regarding the prosecution of the war in Europe.

2. The allied nations' plan for the post-war world, plans in which Stalin has shown neither interest nor any intention of coöperating.

3. Delay of the allies in establishing a second front on the scale he has demanded.

Sunday Is All Upset.

It was regarded as possible, in addition, that he had chosen the closing days of the conference for his action that he might tell the world it is Russia, and not the Anglo-American nations, which will dominate the future war and post-war planning.

A White House spokesman here said the Washington officials concerned had known "for weeks" that Litvinov would not be back.

With the conference reaching its conclusion in an atmosphere of pomp and optimism, mingled with official secrecy, it had been expected that today would be a day of rest.

Instead, the day became a Sunday of mystery and perhaps of hurried, vital discussions. The President, who had planned to go to church, began conferences right after breakfast instead.

Name Lend-Lease Group.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada announced tonight the creation of a joint Canadian and American war aid committee. Its purpose will be to study the problems arising from the American lend-lease and Canadian mutual aid programs.

American members are Maj. Gen. J. H. Burns of the American and British executive munitions assignment board, chairman; William L. Batt of the war production board, vice chairman; J. D. Hickerson, assistant chief of the European division of the state department; Arthur B. Van Buskirk, deputy administrator in the office of lend-lease administration, and Brig. Gen. Boykin C. Wright, director of the international aid division of the army service forces.

Reds Set Up New Plan for Rehabilitation

MOSCOW, Aug. 22 (AP).—The soviet union took its longest step toward economic recovery from the German occupation today by a decree of the council of people's commissars and the central committee of the Communist party organizing reconstruction in regions already wrested from the Nazis.

The 10 section decree giving the first major plan for restoration of devastated areas provided for the return of evacuated live stock, rebuilding ruined structures, financial relief for hard hit populations, and a new system of education for children at state expense.

Set Up Military Schools.

The decree occupied three full pages of today's four page newspapers, reflecting the importance attached to the measures. The most striking provision was one for education, including establishment of nine Suvorov military schools of 500 students each, officially described as "of the type of old cadet schools."

This referred to aristocratic closed schools under the czars. The new institutions also were described as "closed boarding schools."

Boys starting at the age of 10 will wear uniforms and attend the schools seven years. The institutions will open between Oct. 1 and Dec. 1.

Create Labor Schools.

The decree created 23 special labor schools of 400 pupils each, 12 for boys and 11 for girls, with four year technical courses, and also other boarding houses for a total of 16,300 students, nurseries for 1,750 children, and 29 reception centers for a total of 2,000 children to be sent later to other schools.

The decree ordered a total of 127,166 head of cattle, 391,421 sheep and goats, and 52,939 horses returned to reoccupied regions from the east where they had been evacuated before the German occupation.

Agriculture specialists also were ordered to return at state expense to restore farms, machine and tractor stations.

Collective farmers were granted varying exemptions from obligations to deliver produce to the state. Families of Red army men and some other categories, including the aged, were released entirely from state deliveries, while the quotas of others were reduced 50 per cent.

Order New Homes.

The decree described as a "pressing problem" the reconstruction or building of new houses for workers and farmers now living in caves or ruined structures in the Kursk, Orel, Voronezh, Kalinin, Stalingrad, and Rostov provinces and Krasnodar and Stavropol areas.

Factories producing building materials were ordered to resume work to facilitate reconstruction.

The commissariat of railways was instructed to rebuild 122 railroad stations before Jan. 1, including those of Rzhev, Vyazma, Kupiansk, Voroshilovgrad, Voronezh, Rostov, and Armavir.

A five man cabinet committee was set up to supervise the economic relief recovery.

THE REFORMER FROM THE BACK ROOM

Crew's Story of 25 Raids by Famed Fort, Memphis Belle

(The Tribune presents, in a thrilling series starting today, the story of the Memphis Belle, a famous Flying Fortress which took part in 25 raids over Germany and occupied Europe. The bomber returned safely from every mission, altho at various times nine of her motors were blown off. Members of the crew in turn tell their parts in a daylight bombing flight that leveled the Focke-Wulf aircraft factory at Bremen.)

I knew from the sounds of the footsteps on the uncarpeted stairs that the alert officer had come for us. There was a heavy rap on my door and Capt. Warren Sleeper's voice came thru: "Breakfast at 5—briefing at 5:30."

The luminous dial on my wrist watch said it was just 4 a. m. I laced my fingers behind my head and stared thru the darkness at the ceiling. This was going to be a big day. I didn't know where we were going. The target is announced at briefing and is kept secret until that moment. But I had a feeling we were in for a tough session.

Discuss Probable Target.

On bombing day I'm always tense and on edge, like a fighter at ring time. I twisted my head to one side, looked over at my roommate. His lank figure was curled in a ball. I couldn't tell whether he had heard the alert officer.

"Time to get up, Chuck," I said loudly.

Capt. Charles Leighton of East Lansing, Mich., as fine a navigator as you can find, rolled over on his back and stretched lazily.

"Where do you think we'll go today?" he asked.

We always try to second guess the city in which our target is located. Makes us feel like Monday morning quarter backs. The weather was good over Belgium so that was a possibility. St. Nazaire was a popular target of ours, but I didn't think we'd be going there any more because on our last raid we left hardly a factory operating in that city.

10 Live in Field Cottage.

Chuck thought we'd be plastering the docks in Rotterdam. I had the feeling that we'd be going deep into Germany, perhaps to drop a basket of eggs on Berlin.

There were 10 of us living in this large cottage on an R. A. F. field somewhere in England, and a few minutes before 5 a. m. we were trailing across the field toward the Officers club. Stuka, the Scottie dog who was our mascot, yipped along at our heels. It was still dark altho the first trace of dawn was just streaking the horizon.

Vince—that's Capt. Vincent B. Evans of Fort Worth, Tex., our bombardier and Germany's most unpopular tourist—was beefing and letting off steam. He wondered why in the Sam Hill this war couldn't be fought at a respectable hour.

At the Officers club we were served a breakfast of flapjacks made with powdered eggs; toast, jam, and coffee. None of us was very hungry. We dawdled thru the meal, and when the time drew near picked up our hats, walked to the operations room in a hangar about 50 yards away.

We were all pretty anxious to know where we were going. The officers in our squadron jammed into the room, filled the benches and lined the walls. All eyes were trained on the blackboard. On it was a chalk drawing of the target area surrounded by a large irregular circle that was filled with red chalk. The red denoted flak points and it was the heaviest any of us had seen thus far.

C. O. Wastes No Time.

Col. Stanley T. Wray stood in front of the blackboard. The C. O. never wastes time on preliminaries.

"Gentlemen," he said, aiming a pointer at the board, "the target for today is the Focke-Wulf factory in Bremen, Germany."

The announcement gave a lot of us an inner glow. Up to this point we had been bombing steel mills, Diesel engine and tank factories, and a general assortment of military objectives. Here was our opportunity to deal a smashing blow at the very source of our fighter opposition in the air. The colonel's eyes lighted up as he saw the satisfied smiles break out on our faces.

The C. O. was a corking good leader and he had the men behind him 100 per cent. He started with a green bunch of flyers who were called Wray's Raggedy Regulars. But he turned them into one of our hottest bombing squadrons.

Germans Have Radar.

After he had let the location of the target sink in he went on with the rest of the briefing.

Our group was to assemble over the field at 3,000 feet and fly over the city of March, where we were to join two other groups and follow them across the North sea.

Once we hit open water we were to climb to 10,000 feet and after traveling for half an hour parallel with the German coast were to make an abrupt right turn toward Germany. We were to stay low to keep off the German screen.

You see, the Germans have their own radar unit set up along the coast, and these send out ultra high-frequency radio impulses which travel in straight lines until they hit an object, whereupon they bounce back to the transmission point. With the use of cathode ray tubes and translucent screens the Germans can get a general picture of the entire flight.

SOLDIER SLAIN ATTENDING MASS

Lights Candle, Is Felled by Single Shot.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 22 (AP).—Pvt. Eddie Dafnos entered the Greek Orthodox Church of the Annunciation for services today, kissed a painting of the Madonna, lighted a votive candle—and crumpled to the floor with a killer's bullet in his brain.

Pvt. Eddie Dafnos [top], and Peter Raftopoulos.

Father Lokis had just finished the sermon of the mass. He paused, startled, as the pistol shot rang thru the church.

No one had noticed as a man arose from a rear pew, walked toward the soldier, drew a pistol, and fired one bullet, which struck his victim in the forehead.

Congregation Stunned.

Father Lokis and the worshipers saw the man, gun in hand, run down the stairs and out of the church. Stunned and horrified, they made no move to follow. A group carried the mortally wounded soldier from the church. He died in an ambulance.

Father Lokis stepped aside and assistants continued the service.

In a few minutes morning worship ended and the congregation quietly dispersed. Some stepped aside as they passed the spot in front of the painting of the Madonna where Dafnos fell.

"Broke Up My Home."

Shortly after, across town at the hall of justice, Peter Raftopoulos stopped Patrolman Harry Gurtler.

"I just killed a man," Gurtler quoted Raftopoulos. "I killed him because he broke up my home."

Later, Gurtler said, he pieced together the story that Raftopoulos' wife, Mary, 27 years old, has filed suit for divorce and that last March 12, Raftopoulos, 52, a tavern owner, fired three shots at Dafnos. He was arrested, but a charge of assault with intent to commit murder was dismissed because Dafnos declined to sign the complaint.

Raftopoulos was booked at the city jail on a charge of murder.

BIG BATTLE RAGES AS BOMBERS RAID VITAL RAILWAY CENTERS NEAR NAPLES

Gunners Down 51 Axis Planes in Dogfights.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Aug. 23 (Monday)—(AP).—The German-controled Paris radio reported today that allied bombers had again attacked the Italian port of Naples and asserted that 12 of the raiders had been shot down. There was no immediate confirmation from allied circles concerning the raid.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 22 (AP).—Great fleets of Flying Fortresses, Liberators and Marauder bombers rained a new concentration of explosives on vital railway centers near Naples yesterday, seeking to seal off southern Italy.

The Fortresses and Marauders [B-26s] slammed heavily at the rail junctions of Villa Literno and Aversa north of Naples—still smoking from devastating raids of Friday—allied headquarters announced today, while about 70 Liberators [B-24s] from the middle east hammered the air depot and rail yards at Cancello, northeast of Naples, and the airdrome at Pomigliano d'Arco. Heavy Canadian air force Wellingtons by night jolted Battipaglia south of Naples.

Down 51 Axis Planes.

The axis fighters left the Fortresses strictly alone, but swarms of them hopped upon the medium Marauders, which knocked down 22, and Liberators in their daylight raid destroyed 25 enemy planes and probably disabled 12 more. Lightnings [P-38s] escorting the Marauders bagged three other Germans. One other axis plane downed on Friday night brought the 24 hour toll to 51 planes.

Eight allied planes, including two Liberators, were lost in these and other operations.

Heavy damage was caused at Aversa, Villa Literno and Battipaglia, it was announced, and a Cairo bulletin said the Liberators dropped 300,000 pounds of explosives.

[A Liberator of the type used in the raid is on display at the Air Power show in Tribune Square.]

The Fortresses dropped their 500 pound bombs squarely in the center of the Aversa freight yards, 20 miles north of Naples.

Running Fight for Miles.

Altho the big planes were not molested, it was a different story for the Marauders when they attacked Villa Literno.

German interceptors came up in two separate formations of about 25 each. A running fight opened several miles from the target, and the route in and out was black with airplanes firing cannon shells and machine gun bullets.

Pursuing favorite tactics, the Germans dove out of the clouds above the Marauders. Then beneath the American formations they leveled off and turned to resume the attack. Despite their desperate efforts, the enemy fighters were unable to divert the raid.

Chicagoans Score Victories.

Marauder crewmen credited with victories included: Sgt. George W. Linco, 1243 Keystone avenue, and Lt. Charles R. Beatty, 1258 Elmdale avenue of Chicago; and Sgt. William Wright, 5514 Beale avenue, Hammond, Ind.

Sgt. Linco said "four Messerschmitt 109s came in a line abreast behind us. One banked high as tho to make a second pass at us. I saw my tracers going into his cockpit and he exploded in mid-air."

Lt. Beatty, a bombardier, spotted a Messerschmitt dead ahead.

"He was up on one wing crossing in front of us. I gave him two short bursts and a longer one. He fell into a steep slide. My radio operator saw him get hit."

[The Italian war bulletin broadcast from Rome and recorded by the Associated Press claimed 30 allied planes were shot down in the raids on the Naples area. Rome also reported an axis air attack, not confirmed by allied sources, on naval objectives at Bizerte.]

Drop Leaflets on Rome.

LONDON, Aug. 22 (AP).—The Italian radio reported today that allied planes flew over Rome last night dropping leaflets and flares, and in accordance with the recent open city declaration by the Badoglio government no resistance was made.

Axis Reports Allies Land in Italy and Crete

LONDON, Aug. 22 (AP).—The axis controled station "Radio Liberation" declared today that allied landings in "considerable forces" had been made yesterday in Italy and Crete, but British sources discounted the reports, saying nothing was known officially.

The axis broadcast, heard by the ministry of information, was beamed to North Africa in French. British sources said the purpose of the broadcast might have been to stampede underground forces in occupied lands into the open and tip their hand prematurely.

British Broadcasting corporation's monitors said "Radio Liberation" broadcasts irregularly from somewhere near the center of France, altho it claims to operate from North Africa. It describes itself as representing the "national front of liberation" without specifying whom it proposes to liberate from what.

Wide Range of Enemies.

Listeners said the station formerly claimed to represent one faction of De Gaullists but now attacks Giraudists, De Gaullists, Americans, the British, Russians and even occasionally the Germans, presumably in efforts to muddy the propaganda waters.

"Yesterday morning at dawn a strong allied naval squadron protecting a large force of landing barges left harbors in western Sicily," the broadcast said.

The destination of this convoy was not disclosed, and it suddenly split into two formations, the first heading in a southeasterly direction while the other continued eastward, the radio added.

Information received later reported Crete was the objective of the southbound convoy, while the first landing of allied troops began on the eastern coast of the Calabrian peninsula, the broadcast continued.

"Pass Cape Without Hindrance."

"Preliminary operations took place on the beaches around Brancaleone north of Cape Spartivento which the allied navies seem to have passed without hindrance.

"The landing forces are considerable. Further details about the military actions at the gateway of the Adriatic sea have not yet been received, but will soon come in.

"As to the landing attempt in Crete, it has become known that at dawn today parachute units were dropped in Crete. New formations are being sent out from two aircraft carriers which are taking part in the operations, the purpose of which is to paralyze resistance on the island.

"It seems that this twofold attack against the European fortress will lead the allies to the greatest success in military initiatives. In fact, the road to the Balkans is now open to them."

Germans Blocking Peace, Italian Press Asserts.

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 22 (AP).—The Italian press tonight openly declared what it has recently hinted—that the German occupation of Italy was blocking efforts of the Badoglio government to remove the country from the war.

This theme heads the agenda of conferences being held by Minister of Industry Leopold Piccardi with workers in bombed industrial cities—Milan, Turin, and Genoa—in which the workers are being told the people's desire for peace is blocked by "enormous difficulties."

A Swiss Telegraph agency dispatch from Chiasso, on the Italian frontier, said that Italian newspapers are "clearly stating that the first aim of the Badoglio government is to remove the country from war, but Rome is seeking to prevent the peninsula from becoming the theater of a gigantic battle among the Germans there and the Anglo-Saxons threatening to enter."

Number of Nazis Increases.

The Catholic newspaper Italia declared that "Italy has no power to modify her attitude."

The Swiss dispatch reported that the number of German troops constantly was increasing in the peninsula, descending thru the Brenner pass.

"The reality of the tragic situation is clearly understood by the great masses of the Italian people, whose desire to avoid their country's becoming a battlefield has persuaded all classes up to now to remain disciplined," the dispatch said.

The Corriere Della Sera at Milan in an editorial asked the government "not to let even the least favorable chance to take the country out of war escape."

The Swiss agency said the Italian press "has now admitted that Italy considers herself an element in submitting to war, rather than waging it."

Indicates Heavy Rail Damage.

The Piccolo at Rome said that in the final phase of the war only great empires with hundreds of millions of men are still fighting and asked whether the shock of the final conflict will occur on Italian soil.

The extent of disorganization of Italian railroads was indicated in a campaign for quicker repair of bomb blasted lines. Piccolo said the problem presented "infinite difficulties."

The newspaper said that residents of Milan still are compelled to walk enormous distances on foot to reach suburbs and board trains operating without schedules.

Report Hitler Ultimatum.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 22 (AP).—The Canadian Broadcasting corporation today picked up a broadcast from Brazzaville, Africa, quoting Turkish sources as saying Adolf Hitler had delivered an ultimatum to Premier Badoglio demanding to know the Italian government's attitude toward continuation of peace demonstrations and the cause for the government's helplessness in coping with them. The reports added that Hitler was using the peace demonstrations as a pretext for putting German troops in control of Italy.

Will Let Nazis Fight.

MADRID, Aug. 22 (AP).—Dispatches received here from Rome today implied that the Italians do not intend to resist the coming allied invasion, but if the Germans want to resist the allies that is all right with them.

The reason for this attitude, according to Italians in Madrid, is that the Italians feel there would be more of them killed and more Italian property destroyed if they turned on the Germans than if they adopted a noncommittal policy toward their well armed Nazi "allies."

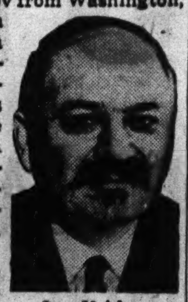
LITVINOV RECALL STIRS UP LONDON FEAR OF BREACH

See Stalin Impatient Over 2d Front Delay.

LONDON, Aug. 22 (AP).—The recall of Maxim Litvinov from Washington, D. C., coming on the heels of Ivan Maisky's withdrawal from London, stirred fears today that at the worst a breach may develop between soviet Russia and her British and American allies.



Ivan Maisky.

At the best, the removal of Litvinov as soviet ambassador to the United States was interpreted here as indicating that Marshal Josef Stalin is impatient with the pace of British-American military operations and is using changes in his diplomatic representation to underscore impatience at the delay in the invasion of the European mainland.

Because technically the removal of Litvinov concerns only the United States and Russia, official British sources declined to comment.

Discount Separate Peace.

Altho the first reaction of some people here to the withdrawal of an outstanding Russian friend of the democracies was that it could foreshadow a separate Russian-German peace, there seemed to be scant general acceptance of the idea that such a peace actually was in the making.

The role that Litvinov is to be given in Moscow was anxiously awaited as a gage to the gravity of the move.

If he remains an important voice in the soviet foreign office, concern here will be lessened, but if he is sent into a complete eclipse, as he was during the soviet government's 1939-'40 rapprochement with Germany, it would deepen the fears of a major schism between the western democracies and the Russians.

The attitude of the Russians can vastly affect the course of the war in the far east. The military might of soviet forces also is the cornerstone of all hopes for a victorious peace in Europe by or before next spring.

Litvinov Retains Title.

Moscow dispatches said the recall of Litvinov and his replacement by Andrei A. Gromyko was announced in a routine manner in the Moscow press, and that Litvinov retained the title of vice commissar for foreign affairs as did Maisky following his recall as ambassador from London last month.

Further, it was announced in London that Eduard Benes, provisional president of the Czech government, will leave shortly for Moscow to conclude a soviet-Czech treaty of alliance similar to the 1935 pact between Moscow and Prague which was vitiated by the Munich agreement of 1938.

The new pact, it was reported, will provide soviet guarantees for the integrity of Czecho-Slovakia. One clause implies a common land frontier—meaning recognition of the 1940 frontiers of Russia in Poland. The Russians will support a return to Czecho-Slovakia of Teschen, annexed by Poland after Munich, it was reported.

Poland Objects to Pact.

Benes' trip to Moscow had been delayed because the Polish government objects to the treaty. The British government has adopted the attitude that Benes should do nothing now affecting frontier problems.

A Berlin broadcast on the recall of Litvinov while gloating that "the latent row in the allied camp thus again has become acute," soberly declared "this domestic row makes neither Roosevelt, Churchill nor Stalin any less hostile toward national socialism [Nazlism] and they are now, as before, agreed that it must be fought to the end."

The Berlin radio summed it up thus, "Stalin does not want promises but action."

The Reuters [British news agency] correspondent in Moscow also reported that the diplomatic shifts "imply no change whatever in the policy of the soviet union or its relations with its western allies."

One obvious interpretation was that the Quebec conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill has not brought forth a program promising a full scale invasion of western Europe before the snow flies.

The reported visit by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to Moscow immediately assumes great added importance and raises the obvious point that an American of equal rank might accompany him to the soviet capital.

CAPITAL EXPECTS IMPORTANT MOVE BY RUSSIANS SOON

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22 (AP).—The conviction that Josef Stalin does not do things just for fun led capital diplomatic observers today to expect an important Russian development to follow the recall of Maxim Litvinov from his post as soviet ambassador here.

This development—and there was no concrete idea offered as to what it might be — may be two or three months materializing, it was added.

Litvinov is regarded as a symbol of Russian-American collaboration and his removal at this time aroused keen interest. There was no official statement, but the question of what might follow was a topic of live speculation in diplomatic quarters.

One interpretation was that perhaps Premier Stalin is drawing farther into his shell, pulling in his American and British ambassadors on the theory that if foreign governments want to discuss Russian matters they can send men to Moscow. In other words, that Litvinov might be of more value answering the doorbell in the Kremlin than ringing the doorbell at the White House.

MRS. CHURCHILL PRAISES RUSSIA IN PLEA FOR AID

QUEBEC, Aug. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of the British prime minister, today praised "the heroic part played by the people of Russia" in the war. In a broadcast to Britain she appealed for renewed support of Red Cross aid to Russia.

She made no reference to the Quebec war conference in her talk.

In this first mention of Russia to come from the Citadel of the chateau, Mrs. Churchill said that the Russians "fought for their own survival, but in doing so, fought also for ours. The Russians no longer are on the defensive. They have wrested the initiative from the enemy, and today it is the Germans who are kept wondering which way the cat will jump."

SPAIN NEUTRAL BY OWN CHOICE, ASSERTS PAPER

Disavows Fascist or Nazi Ties.

MADRID, Aug. 22 (AP).—Spain's present policy was clearly defined today in an article in the weekly, El Espanol, which established these two points:

1. Spain is out of the war because the government, "despite movements of sympathy or compassion in certain sections of the population," kept Spain a nonbelligerent "by its own free decision."

2. Spain's Falangist party regime is a national régime and therefore above international events and not to be influenced by the fall of fascism in Italy or other foreign developments.

Follows Hoare's Talk.

[This explanation of Spanish policy follows a two-hour interview by Samuel Hoare, British ambassador, with Gen. Francisco Franco and his foreign minister, Count Francisco Gomez Jordana, on Friday night.]

El Espanol, like the Falangist party organ, Arriba, frequently publishes articles of national import.

At the same time a second development which seemed to delineate Spain's attitude was a unique official pilgrimage of thousands of Falangists to Santiago de Compostela where Franco and high party leaders joined them.

"Different" from Fascists.

This pilgrimage was designed to show the Catholic character of the party and regime, one of the points officially cited as making the Spanish party different from all others, such as Fascist or Nazi.

Falangist pilgrims by the thousands poured into Santiago, where, according to legend, the bones of the Apostle James, the patron of Spain, are buried. When the pilgrimage was first announced it was decided that those who went afoot should go thru Spain speaking on the party's program, aiding farmers, visiting the sick, and doing good works. Falangists exhibiting proof of the greatest activity of this kind on the pilgrimage will be proposed for special party awards.

RUSSIANS SEIZE 30 MORE TOWNS NEAR KHARKOV

Advance 3½ Miles North of Nazi Base.

LONDON, Aug. 23 [Monday]—(AP).—A Russian column striking north of Kharkov gained three and one-half miles yesterday and captured 30 villages, Moscow announced early today. The Red army last was reported within 10 miles of the city on that side.

A war bulletin announced new advances on the Bryansk, Spas Demenskoe, and Donetz basin fronts as well, and German losses for the day were set at 9,500 killed, and 138 tanks and 32 planes destroyed.

Six hundred Germans were declared wiped out north of Kharkov in the steady soviet effort to encircle the city. Several days ago dispatches said the Russians had only a 13 mile gap to close southwest of the city. but today's bulletin acknowledged furious German resistance and numerous enemy counter-attacks.

Battle Rages Beyond Kharkov.

The heaviest fighting raged in an unspecified area back of Kharkov where 2,000 Germans were reported killed, 80 tanks destroyed and more than 200 trucks knocked out. This action may have occurred in the important Poltava sector 75 miles west of Kharkov on the approaches to the German Dnieper river bend defenses.

On the Bryansk front the Russians captured one village, but the lack of details suggested the Russians were making scant progress in that area, where their columns last were reported within 25 miles of the city.

Farther north, in the sector southwest of Spas Demenskoe, the bulletin said, a strong enemy force of infantry supported by tanks and planes was repulsed and "our troops pursued the beaten enemy."

In the Donetz basin, far to the southwest of Kharkov, the Russians said their troops had captured additional localities and killed 3,500 enemy troops in "battles of local significance" southwest of Voroshilovgrad.

Reds Bomb Rail Junctions.

The Donetz theater took on added significance in Moscow's announcement that Red airmen were attacking enemy rail junctions behind the line.

Moscow newspapers carried no battle front dispatches, while Berlin declared that Nazi defense tactics had frustrated the Russian drives and penned up some soviet units in the Kharkov sector.

The German official report stressed the battle in the Mius valley, northwest of Rostov, reporting the Russians were continuing their assaults with strong bomber and tank support. These attacks were shattered in hand-to-hand fighting and 21 soviet tanks were destroyed, it added.

ALLIES CAPTURE RIDGE; GUNS FIRE ON SALAMAUA

Troops Within Four Miles of Airdrome.

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 23 [Monday] —(AP).—Allied troops commanding Salamaua, New Guinea, have captured ridge positions commanding the airdrome there, a headquarters bulletin announced today. The American and Australian forces are pressing hard on the heels of the retreating Japanese, the bulletin added.

The new advance on Salamaua put the allies within four miles of the settlement itself and within an even closer distance of the airdrome, chief prize of the current New Guinea offensive.

The ridge lies south and east of Salamaua and rises above the Francisco river, across from the airfield, stretching inland from the sea to allied held Komiatum.

Artillery Shells Town.

Americans and Australians have pulled guns into position and now are firing directly upon Salamaua.

Within the last 70 hours, the Japanese have withdrawn two to four miles, giving up Roosevelt ridge near Tambu Bay, on the coast south of Salamaua, and Goodview Junction near Mount Tambu. But the enemy is holding strongly on a ridge overlooking Dot inlet north of Tambu Bay and on a shortened but strengthened line protecting Salamaua.

The gains aground were accompanied by air strikes at the retreating enemy. "Our attack planes bombed and strafed enemy troop positions and later a heavy unit bombed Logui village," the bulletin said. Logui is at the mouth of the Francisco river.

Seize Jap Artillery.

Attacking along the length of the Huon gulf, which encompasses both Salamaua and the second major enemy base of Lae to the north, allied heavy reconnaissance units strafed enemy shore positions at Cape Gerhards and Hopoi, the bulletin said. The Malahang area was bombed by still another group of planes.

In the Solomon Islands American troops seized the artillery with which the enemy has been shelling the Munda airfield, on New Georgia. The seizure was made on Baanga Island, off the west coast of New Georgia.

At Vella Lavella, where some enemy resistance still counters the American occupation of a week ago, aerial raiders dropped 29 tons of bombs on Japanese barge centers.

Previous reports have indicated that the Japanese, tho driven from the Munda area and virtually surrounded at Bairoko, to the north, still hold positions in some strength on several of the small islands in the chain stretching along the northwest coast of New Georgia. Baanga is the first of these which the Americans have attempted to occupy. The land action on Baanga was accompanied by new allied strikes against Japanese supply lines in the Solomons sector.

IOWA SOLDIER IS GIVEN MEDAL FOR RESCUING A PAL

ALLIED HDQ. IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 22 (AP).—Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney awarded the soldiers medal today to Pvt. Patrick E. Wallace, Oakville, Ia., for heroism in Australia Oct. 20, 1942. Wallace was a spectator watching other soldiers swimming in the river and noticed one in difficulty. A companion was unable to keep him afloat. Wallace dived into the water and rescued one of the two soldiers. He then dived under the water and found the second, and brought him ashore. His attempts to revive him were fruitless.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by the Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Marion Brown, 5536 Ingleside avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

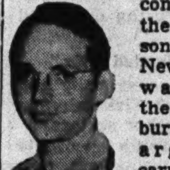
Which of your ideas got your family's most emphatic disapproval?

WHERE ASKED.

Michigan avenue and Washington street.

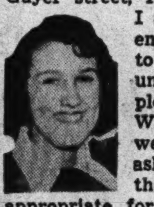
THE ANSWERS.

Mitchell M. Padula, student, 4249 Fillmore street—A couple of years ago I helped put up the tents on the circus grounds. I enjoyed it so much that I asked if I could travel all over with them and have a summer time job. I cinched the deal, but my parents wouldn't let me do it. That would have been a real opportunity, too.



Richard S. Terman, student, Lafayette, Ind.—My friend and I were convinced that we had the most patriotic reasons to hitchhike to New York. We didn't want to overburden the railroad traffic or burn extra gas, but the arguments didn't carry with my parents, tho the other boy had his parents' permission.

Robert Frohnauer, student, 1937 Howe street—Whether or not I was going to play football on the high school team caused quite a discussion in our family. I'd rather play than eat, but my mother refused to permit me. My father was undecided and my brother, who is in the navy, said it would be just the thing.



Katherine Dumovich, student, 417 Guyer street, Hobart, Ind.—Before I approached my parents on wearing slacks to school I waited until they had heard plenty on the subject. When most of the girls were wearing them, I asked which color they thought was the most appropriate for my school slacks. The issue ended there.

Gladys Huml, student, 532 Madison street, Gary, Ind.—My parents think I should wait until I'm 21 before I carry out some of the plans I've outlined. One of them was smoking. They heartily disapproved when I suggested I thought I'd take it up, but they were glad I discussed it with them.

Isabel Schmelter, student, Gary, Ind.—It was impossible to sell my parents the idea of my wearing ankle socks all winter. They couldn't believe that my bare legs had become accustomed to the cold, just as my face had. They didn't approve and I had to be extravagant and wear stockings all winter.

MORE SABOTAGE ANSWERS PLEAS BY DANISH KING

Nazis Have New Troubles in Norway, Too.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 22 (AP).—New acts of sabotage in Denmark, with bomb explosions in three places at Odense on Fyn Island, were reported today on the heels of the Danish government's appeal to the people to halt such violence.

All rail and telephone communications with the Island of Fyn were broken as a result of sabotage and disorders. Odense was a center of resistance, with dispatches Friday telling of clashes between patriots and soldiers, dynamiting of a Nazi rail supply line and killing of 15 Germans in rioting on Fyn.

Nazis Keep Counsel.

There had been no announcement yet of German reaction to Denmark's refusal to yield administration of justice to the Nazis, resulting in the appeal yesterday by King Christian X. and the government to the people to stop sabotage lest the Germans impose heavy reprisals.

Germans in Norway meanwhile were reported trying vigorously to stamp out underground forces, and have arrested 40 policemen since a purge of police disloyal to the Vidkun Quisling government was begun Aug. 16.

It was also said that 14 policemen who were arrested when they refused to sign a loyalty declaration on the same day that Gunnar Eilifsen, chief of civilian police, was executed, now have disappeared.

Official German reaction was still lacking to the move by 33 prominent Finns, including 21 riksdag members, asking the Finnish government to investigate all possibilities of a separate peace with Russia.

One German, however, discussing reports that the Nazis might evacuate troops from Finland and northern Norway said Finland and Norway lie "within the inner line," and withdrawal was an impossibility.

New Finn Peace Move.

Another Finnish peace overture came today with a special visit to Stockholm by Eero Vuori, chief of the Finnish trade union, who sought to ascertain from Arthur Deakin, an official of the British Transport Workers union, whether Britain would act as intermediary to learn what peace terms Russia wanted. Deakin, who has been visiting Sweden for several weeks, suggested Finland's best chance would be to contact Russia directly.

Vuori's visit was significant since it presumably was authorized by the Finnish government. Trade unions control the Social Democratic party which dominates the Finnish riksdag. Vuori also inquired whether Britain could supply food, coal, cattle, fodder, and machine oil if Finland made peace with Russia. The Finns now are supplied by Germany.

YANKS ON KISKA TAKE OFF PAINT AND BUILD ROADS

Many Reserve Troops Still Aboard Ship.

BY WILLIAM L. WORDEN.

BAMBOO BAY, Kiska, Aug. 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—The American task force now ashore at Kiska expressed a mixture of relief and disappointment today at the Japanese failure to defend this island.

This task force is composed of large numbers of Americans and Canadians who have been training for months against the day when they would meet the enemy. Splendidly equipped and armed, they were all set to fight, but found no enemy.

Many soldiers feel definitely cheated, and yet they frankly are just as glad not to see their friends wounded or killed.

Ashore the men have been just about as busy as they would have been in battle. They established swift advance patrols, and these and the main lines forced the supply people to work at double time to keep food and other supplies with the troops.

Roads Already Cut.

Road builders already have tractor type roads cut well across the island to connect with the existing Japanese made highway network. Artillery is being turned around to defend the island which the guns were supposed to attack.

The floating reserve aboard ships has the least to do and contains the most bitterly disappointed thousands.

Altho they expected to be in battle not later than Monday, for them there is not even the satisfaction of moving across the tundra or working to build up the base. They are just sitting, wondering now what their next assignment will be. In the meantime the card games go on and face paint comes off. Many troops had their faces camouflaged days ago.

Turn Back Ammunition.

Officers are turning back the hand grenades and extra ammunition and rations which they had drawn in expectation of being out of touch of supplies for hours or even days.

To have come safely into Kiska harbor aboard American warships and transports lent unreality to the whole affair which make the men wonder. They did not dream they would sail directly into the harbor and that their transport would drop anchor safely between the bombed and burned out hulks of rusty Japanese ships without a shot being fired. But they came just so and tonight American warships and transports lie all around the island. More than a dozen are anchored in Kiska harbor with the bombed ships on either side.

Approximately 300 feet above the sea, on a man-made plateau, is an airport where no plane has ever landed, but a landing strip at least 2,500 feet long is ready for use with the repair of a few bomb craters. Any ordinary crew could have repaired these in a few hours.

Japs Took Personal Effects.

The contrast between living facilities on much bombed Kiska, which the Japs abandoned, and little bombed Attu, which they defended to the end, is striking. American observers scurrying over the island have already reached several definite conclusions: That the enemy left the island with only what each man could carry on his back; that the evacuation was gradual enough so that they were able to take practically all personal effects.

TWO HELD CAPTIVE BY JAPANESE SEND CARDS TO PARENTS

Pvt. James M. Hildebrandt, 23 years old, son of August L. Hildebrandt, 7708 Stewart avenue, is a prisoner in a Japanese camp in the Philippine Islands, according to a postal card received from him, his father said yesterday. Pvt. Hildebrandt is a graduate of Parker High school and a former telephone installer employed by the Western Electric company. He enlisted in the army air forces in 1941. He was sent to the Philippines shortly before the Japanese attack.

Pvt. James M. Hildebrandt [top] and Corp. W. Mensching.

Corp. Wilfred H. Mensching, 1334 Oakwood avenue, Des Plaines, a marine, is alive and uninjured in a Japanese prison camp in the Philippines, he has notified his mother, Mrs. Ida Mensching, in a form post card.

He was first reported a prisoner of war by the navy department last May 25.

MEN FROM ALL OVER CANADA IN FORCE ON KISKA

Brig. Gen. Foster Is Contingent Head.

QUEBEC, Aug. 22 (AP).—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King in an address tonight said Brig. Gen. H. W. Foster commanded the Canadian forces which participated in the occupation of Kiska Island with American troops.

Broadcasting from the Churchill-Roosevelt war conference headquarters here, King said Canadians in the United States task force sent to Kiska represented "every part of Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

Had Served Overseas.

Commenting on the fact that the occupying force did not find any Japanese on the island, he suggested that the earlier American conquest of Attu, attacks upon Japanese supply lines, and recent bombardment of Kiska by air and sea forces caused the enemy to withdraw.

Brig. Gen. Foster was identified in the prime minister's address as former commander of an infantry brigade in the Canadian army overseas.

Proud of Conference.

He said the troops selected for operating with the American task force had been concentrated on Vancouver Island for an intensive period of special training which was carried further after their arrival in Alaska.

King closed his address with a brief reference to the Churchill-Roosevelt conference and the fact that the two leaders were guests of Canada in the Citadel here.

JAPS QUIT KISKA 'SUCCESSFULLY' IN JULY—TOKIO

Claim Yanks Pounded an Undefended Island.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Axis broadcasts asserted yesterday that Japanese forces on the island of Kiska made their secret departure late in July, and the Berlin radio said the holding of Kiska was known to have been impossible after American troops wiped out the Japanese garrison on Attu.

American and Canadian forces occupied Kiska Aug. 15 after two weeks of concentrated bombardment.

[In a story on page 5 Lt. Gen. De Witt is quoted as believing that the Japs had left Kiska "by Aug. 8 or shortly thereafter."]

The German broadcast called the Japanese withdrawal a "great success," adding that the Japanese fight in Attu and Kiska had enabled Japan "to strengthen the rear positions of the Japanese in the northern Pacific without being disturbed by the enemy."

"Pounded Undefended Isle."

It added that Japanese army and naval units which left Kiska already have been sent to other sectors.

Both Berlin and Tokio seemingly took delight in pointing out that American forces continued to pound Kiska from sea and air during the first two weeks of August, a period during which, according to the Japanese, the island was undefended.

"Thousands of tons of bombs and shells were wasted by United States air and naval forces between the end of July and Aug. 15 in the furious bombing and shelling attacks on Kiska Island—no man's island—from which all Japanese garrisons had safely withdrawn the latter part of July," said a naval commentator of the Japanese news agency Domei in a Tokio broadcast.

"Strategic Necessity."

The withdrawal, he said, was "prompted by strategic necessity" and was carried out by the closest coöperation of the army and navy. Not only did American forces fail to detect Japanese units sent to assist in the withdrawal, but they continued shelling and bombing the island for nearly 20 days after the Japanese had left, the commentator said.

JAPAN NO. 1 ENEMY OF U. S., WOMEN VOTE IN MAGAZINE POLL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—Japan is unmistakably our No. 1 enemy in the eyes of American women, a national women's magazine asserted today after a poll of its readers.

Confronted with the question: "How should the allied nations deal with our three major enemies after the war—harshly, firmly, leniently?" the vast majority of women favored firm or harsh treatment for Japan, Germany and Italy.

Vote of 45 per cent of the participants in the poll for harsh treatmen of the Japanese, caused its conductors, the Woman's Home Companion, to draw the conclusion that the Japs are our No. 1 enemy. It reported 47 per cent of the participants favored a policy of firmness for dealing with the Nipponese.

For the Germans, 40 per cent favored harsh treatment, 53 per cent firmness and 4 per cent leniency.

New Vitamin Way!

Thousands Lose Lbs. of Ugly Fat and Feel Better

Would you like to get rid of that ugly flabby fat that spoils your figure and is so annoying? Of course. Everyone does. But now you can reduce without going hungry, without giving up a single type of food—and without resorting to drugs, exercise or dangerous starvation diets.

All you have to do is this. Eat a light breakfast, starting off with 2 teaspoons of VEE-MOR in a glass of any fruit juice. Have your regular dinner or supper. But here's the trick. For lunch, however, take 2 teaspoons of VEE-MOR in a glassful of fruit or vegetable juice, or any other suitable beverage. With it, if you wish, take a cup of tea or coffee, and that's all. It is pleasant and enjoyable, and notice how it satisfies your appetite. The important thing, however, is that it supplies Vitamins A, B, D, G and other B complex factors, as well as calcium, phosphorus and strength-building proteins in sizable quantities and in a way that keeps up your strength and energy while foregoing the food you normally take for lunch. VEE-MOR helps the body use up its own fat.

Thousands who have tried it are delighted with the way pounds slip away, all without any bother or feeling that you are starving yourself to death. Test VEE-MOR for 10 days. If it doesn't produce satisfactory results, bring back the unused portion and every penny of your money will be returned.

WHERE IS YOUR FLEET? DE WITT TAUNTS JAPAN

General Says It's Split Up and in Hiding.

BY EUGENE BURNS.

AN ADVANCED ALEUTIAN BASE, Aug. 21 [Delayed]—(AP).—Lt. Gen. John L. De Witt hurled a taunt back in the face of the Japanese today when he asked:

Lt. Gen. John L. De Witt.

"Where is the Japanese fleet?"

The commander of the western defense command, whose military jurisdiction covers Kiska Island, spoke vehemently as he interpreted the significance of the bloodless reoccupation of Kiska. His question was a sequel to the dark days after Pearl Harbor, when the Japanese sneered, "Where is the United States fleet?"

And then the general answered his own question.

"The Jap fleet is in hiding, dispersed," he said, "part of it is on the ocean floor; part of it is in the South Pacific to counter Adm. Halsey's forces; part of it is at home to meet any threats from Adm. Nimitz' forces, and part of it is in the North Pacific to counter potential threats by Vice Adm. Kinkaid's forces.

Now on Offensive.

"We are now on the offensive in the Pacific. The Jap is on the run. We must retain the initiative now in our hands. The reoccupation of Kiska has cleared our shortest highway to the Japanese empire. We are today where the Jap was after he had his Pacific bases ready and struck Pearl Harbor and then swept down on the southwest Pacific.

"Then, we had to split our forces and attempt to check his advance. He taunted us 'Where is the United States fleet?'

"It was one heartbreaking holding action after another. Wake, Hongkong, Macassar Strait, Java, the Philippines, Burma, all raped. Finally we were able to make a stand, and we held him at Midway, Guadalcanal, and New Guinea. Now we have driven him out of the Aleutians. Now we ask 'Where is the Japanese fleet?'

The general said the Japanese now have one great weakness.

"He has overextended himself," he continued. "He has an island empire which is difficult to defend.

"Drive Attack Home."

"We must not delay in taking advantage of our favorable position and keep driving the attack home. We have very definitely established our superiority in every way.

"As Kiska fell when Attu was reduced, so too will the enemy's other bases fall when with strength we can attack and split him further. As his navy is split, so too are his army and his air forces split.

"We must keep the offensive in our hands. Every day we prosecute the war in the Pacific we will save American blood and kill more Japs.

"Every man and woman who helps turn out the tools of war is helping shorten it by giving us the tools to defeat the enemy. It will be a long war, but Kiska proved that the Jap knows when he is whipped and we know that he will run."

Evacuated by Sub.

After inspecting the Japanese installations on Kiska and commenting on how effectively they were placed, Gen. De Witt said, "I am certain that we would have suffered 5,000 killed had the enemy elected to fight to the end.

"My first guess is that the Japs were evacuated by submarine, as they attempted to do at Guadalcanal when they were whipped. The heavy midsummer fog helped them in the Aleutians. The evacuation began as a well disciplined maneuver in about mid-June, but it apparently rapidly deteriorated by about Aug. 8 into a rout.

"We do not know if the Japs got back to Japan. The navy sank several of their submarines which attempted to run the blockade during the night and in the fog, and on several occasions our naval units fired upon some 'objects' during actions."

The general estimated that the Kiska garrison at the time of United States recapture of Attu consisted of from 9,500 to 10,000 men, judging from their installations.

"It is not unlikely that they used their Kiska harbor barges for the evacuation," he said.

Kiska Full of Guns.

These barges were gone before July 27.

"If they put into the open sea bound for Paramushiro, their nearest base [on the northern tip of the Kurile Islands, 900 miles from Kiska] their survival chances are slight.

"They may have used Segula Island off Kiska for a staging base, however. Or they may have transferred to vessels at sea. On July 10, for example, we found four of their ships 200 miles off Attu and destroyed one and damaged another before they escaped.

As at Attu, there was much ammunition, food stores, and guns on Kiska. Some anti-aircraft guns and coastal batteries were in concrete positions.

Gen. De Witt said buildings, guns, trucks, and food were destroyed systematically and well in some sections of the island.

Find Milk Still Sweet.

"Then a sudden frenzy seems to have possessed them," he said. "Materials of war were left unharmed and buildings were left standing. Trucks from these areas are already transporting our equipment."

Gen. De Witt said he believed the evacuation was completed by Aug. 8 or shortly thereafter.

"Anti-aircraft fire was heavy as late as July 26," he added.

But Col. Robert T. Frederick reported that he found opened Japanese milk tins in which the milk was still sweet. He said he believed a few Japanese were on Kiska not more than 24 hours before our troops landed.

During his tour, Gen. De Witt visited the enemy submarine base which, he said, the 11th air force under command of Maj. Gen. William O. Butler reduced.

Three Midget Submarines.

"In the base were three destroyed midget submarines such as the Japs used at Pearl Harbor. This was abandoned months ago when it was made untenable," he said.

Gen. De Witt visited a Japanese shrine where the enemy had left a little god. It was in one of the buildings which had served as a United States navy weather observation station when the Japanese landed in June, 1942.

What happened to the 10 American naval men who operated the weather station is not known.

"Even tho we discovered no Japs on Kiska, it resulted in an excellent maneuver, and we now have a highly trained and well equipped group of troops itching for combat," Gen. De Witt said.

"This group is the finest body of men ever gathered together in any task force."

Forms Jaw of Pincers.

ADVANCED 11TH AIR FORCE HDQ., Aleutian Islands, Aug. 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—Lt. Col. Jean K. Fogle, in charge of the 11th air force intelligence department, said today the Japanese abandonment of Kiska Island cleared the way for operation of a multiple-jawed pincer against the enemy.

"The 11th air force," he asserted, "now is the northern arm of a pincer. It is slowly closing in on the Japanese empire in coördination with the 7th air force in Hawaii, the 13th air force in the Solomons, the 5th air force in New Guinea, the 10th air force in India, and the 14th air force in China."

The Kiska Japanese, said Maj. Gen. William O. Butler, commander of the 11th air force, was probably "the most abused Jap in history."

"Our air force destroyed his incoming supplies and reënforcements. When they brought in planes we destroyed them. When they built a submarine base our bombers destroyed it. When they built a runway we prevented its use. When they built buildings we destroyed them.

Drop 5 Million Pounds.

"Five and one-half million pounds of bombs were dropped on the Kiska Jap. Many million pounds of machine gun bullets and autocannon projectiles were poured into his living quarters and defensive positions.

"A sample of our destruction was July 22. On that day army bombers and naval ships dumped 575,000 pounds of bombs and shells. Liberators, Mitchells, Dauntless dive bombers, Lightnings, and Warhawks came in from high elevations to grass cutting levels from 8:28 a. m. to 5:55 p. m. The Japs simply couldn't stand it."

It was after this, Gen. Butler said, that Japanese anti-aircraft fire began to diminish and finally ceased.

"It was the first time the Jap has pulled out," the general added. "He can take only so much punishment. He knows when he is whipped. We will do it again and again until victory is ours."

JAPS HONOR U. S. PILOT ON KISKA WITH A MARKER

AT SEA OFF KISKA, Aug. 18 [Delayed].—The first patrols to reach the main Japanese camp area near an air field found the wreckage of a P-40 fighter plane which had been shot down during the dive-bombing attack of July 24, and near it the grave of its pilot, over which had been raised a marker with the following inscription: "Here lies a brave young air hero who lost youth and happiness for his motherland. "Nippon army July 25."

TINY BOAT SAVES 3 FLYERS UNDER NOSES OF JAPS

Rescues Bomber Crew Near Salamaua.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES NEAR SALAMAUA, New Guinea, Aug. 17 [Delayed].—A combination of skilful piloting and daring by rescuers this morning saved the lives of three members of a crew of an American bomber shot down by anti-aircraft while over Salamaua. The plane crash landed a few miles off Salamaua and the crew was rescued by three volunteers putting out in a tiny outboard motorboat.

Lt. Jack Osborne, 26 years old of Portland, Ore., a field artilleryman; Capt. John Pawson, 22 years old of Brighton, Victoria, an Australian liaison officer, and Sgt. Cleveland Brubooelow of Lomita, Cal., effected the rescue and said they could see right into Salamaua while picking up the three flyers.

Meanwhile, other A-20 bombers circled anxiously over the flyers who floated in the water with their Mae Wests when their raft drifted away. They were pulled aboard the rescue craft with some difficulty due to overcrowding.

Shakes Motor Out.

Osborne said Capt. Nenneman, pilot of the crashed bomber, told him the first anti-aircraft shell tore out the entire instrument panel, dropped it into his lap and ripped part of the controls. The second shell set the right motor afire and the motor finally shook free from its mount.

Another plane served as a special guide to the flyers. Osborne said the rescued were Nenneman, Sgt. Barsley Runner, and a photographer. None was more than slightly injured and all were transferred to a crash boat.

All kept their seats as the plane lost altitude rapidly. Nenneman headed out to sea and made what the gunner termed a beautiful landing—just skimming the water. The plane nosed up and threw the pilot out, while the others scrambled out of the plane, which sank in 15 seconds.

"Silly Place to Come Down."

After the pick-up, the rescue boat began circling to head back to land, when a plane came over and the pilot shut off his motor and shouted down, "Keep going in a straight line, a crash boat's coming." The rescue was so well managed you would have thought it a practice maneuver and not one made practically under the Jap noses.

I asked what the rescued men had said. Osborne said the gunner told them, "Boy, are we glad to see you."

"We told them this was a bloody silly place to come down," said Pawson, grinning.

Very few of our flyers are lost who drop into the sea within even desperate reach of shore craft.

ONE RAID WRECKS 110 BUILDINGS OF BIG KRUPP PLANT

LONDON, Aug. 22 (AP).—One hundred and ten buildings of the Krupp armament works—Germany's largest—were hit by the British air force on its Essen raid of July 25, and the damage done that night was considered as serious as that inflicted in all previous attacks on this target this year, the British air ministry reported tonight.

A study of aerial photographs showed that fire caused the greatest damage, burning more than 36 hours after the raid. About one-fifth of what was left of Essen after previous bombings was destroyed that night. Reconnaissance showed a direct hit on the steel furnaces of the Krupp armor foundry in the Vogelheim district, and elsewhere in the city's nine engineering works, a tin smelter, plastic works, three collieries, a brick works, and a bridge fabricating works were hit.

Air Minister Archibald Sinclair congratulated Air Marshal Arthur T. Harris on the "outstanding success" of the R. A. F.'s bombing of the hidden and well guarded radio location research and development plant at Peenemuende, Germany, last Tuesday night. The night's operations cost the R. A. F. 41 bombers.

R. A. F. Breaks Lull; Blast Germany by Night

LONDON, Aug. 23 [Monday]—(AP).—R. A. F. bombers broke a lull in the allied aerial offensive by blasting Germany anew last night, a British announcement stated today.

YANKS RAID JAP CANTON AIRBASE; FIGHT 20 ZEROS

Down 5; Foil Raid on U. S. Field.

WITH THE U. S. 14TH AIR FORCE IN CHINA, Aug. 21 [Delayed] — (AP). — Mitchell medium bombers of the United States 14th air force attacked the Japanese held Tien Ho airdrome at Canton Friday a few hours after Japanese air units failed in a renewed attempt to raid an American air base in Kwangsi province.

Escorting Warhawk fighters broke up attacks by more than 20 Japanese Zeros in three flights as the B-25s made their bombing run on camouflaged Tien Ho, scoring hits on hangars and aircraft revetments. One large fire was observed on the airdrome.

"The Japanese attempted interception, losing five Zeros confirmed and two other Zeros probably destroyed," said a bulletin from Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters.

Down Two Zeros.

Twenty-one enemy planes which approached the air base in Kwangsi were intercepted by American Warhawks which were outnumbered but downed two Zeros and drove the raiders away from their objective. The Japanese made no attempt to drop bombs.

Several American planes were damaged in the two engagements but all of them returned to their base.

Capt. Arthur Cruickshank of Ruston, La., shot down his third Zero of the day over Canton after downing two in earlier operations.

Fighter Group Comdr. Bruce Holloway of Knoxville, Tenn., this theater's leading ace, got one confirmed Zero and one "probable" at Canton, making his total 11.

U. S. Planes Attack Hanoi.

LONDON, Aug. 22 (AP).—The Paris radio reported today that American planes attacked Hanoi in French Indo-China yesterday. Damage was slight, the broadcast said, and three planes were shot down.

Repulse Jap Thrust.

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 22 (AP).—Chinese troops have repulsed an enemy thrust south of the Yellow river in eastern Honan province, killing a large number of Japanese, the Chinese high command announced today.

In Chekiang province a Japanese held village was seized and a quantity of military supplies captured. The Chinese reported they also attacked a point south of Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi province, with considerable success.

CURTIN'S LABOR PARTY SWEEPS AUSSIE ELECTION

Wins House and Senate Majorities.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 22 (AP).—The Labor government, led by Prime Minister John Curtin, scored one of the most convincing victories in Australian political history in Saturday's general election, winning at least 44 of the 75 seats in the house of representatives, and being likely to win another nine.

Labor also captured all the 19 senate seats for which voting took place.

The exact extent of the swing to Labor cannot be assessed until the votes of the service men are added to the total, probably late this week. But Labor will have a majority of at least 11 in the lower house. The speaker votes only to break a tie and the Northern Australia member votes only on matters concerning his district.

May Have 29 Majority.

If Labor takes the additional nine seats where it appears to be winning, its majority would amount to 29.

The Labor majority in the senate will not operate until next July 1, when 18 of the newly elected senators take their seats. The election for the 19th seat was caused by the death of an opposition member from Western Australia.

In the old parliament, the opposition had a majority of two in the senate, but Labor's success in the 19th seat means government and opposition each will hold 18 seats.

Curtin in a statement tonight said "we shall endeavor to discharge the great trust reposed in us."

Biggest Since 1917.

Not since 1917 has there been such a pronounced swing. At that time W. M. Hughes led his "win the war" party to a decisive victory, after having been twice beaten on its conscription referenda. Hughes was returned with a two to one majority in the house of representatives and an overwhelming majority in the senate.

The result of Saturday's election—the second since the second great war began—was generally taken to represent a big swing to Labor of middle class voters who for 21 years out of the 24 between 1917 and 1941 kept Labor from office.

Vote of Confidence.

The people of Australia in effect have given Curtin a generous vote of confidence, mainly due to approval on the whole of his war administration, and passed a vote of censure on the opposition parties as a result of disunity between Arthur Fadden, leader of the United Country party, and R. G. Menzies, leader of the United Australia party.

Curtin himself in his own constituency of Fremantle in Western Australia seems likely to have a majority of almost 20,000. Fadden, the opposition leader, is still in danger in his Queensland seat but is expected to win as results for smaller country districts are tabulated.

PATRICIA TAKES STROLL AND FINDS A PLACE TO NAP

Patricia Coleman, 2 years old, who was taken to Chicago avenue police station after she was found wandering near Erie and Clark streets yesterday morning, was returned to her parents a few hours later. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coleman, 125 West Erie street, discovered that the child was missing when she failed to return home for lunch. Her father went to the police station and found his daughter safe and asleep.

FRENCH POLITE TO NAZIS AND IT FRIGHTENS THEM

Nearness of Allied Attack Has Strange Effect.

MADRID, Aug. 22 (AP).—The mass of the French people have suddenly become extremely polite, cheerful and pleasant towards the Germans and Laval government officials, and neither the Germans nor the Laval followers like it.

This is part of an extraordinary picture of a new atmosphere in France brought to Spain by Frenchmen, neutrals, Italians and even Germans who traveled from Paris since the allied radio first began to warn Frenchmen that the hour of action was close.

Nothing has worried occupation authorities and the Lavalites so much recently as the sudden decrease in acts of sabotage and violence and the excessive concern over the Germans' welfare.

Too Much Pleasantness.

"When our train stopped at Vierzon station Thursday night on the way from Paris to Montauban," said a Spanish merchant of Barcelona, "nearly 100 men and women of the town gathered on the platform went immediately to a car occupied by German officers.

"There they stood silently nodding and waving until the Germans demanded what they wanted. The reply was, 'O, nothing, we simply came to the station to greet you and do anything we can to make your stay in Vierzon pleasant.'

"Women among the group made smiling, exaggerated comments about the good looks of German officers and men, and offered them glasses of water and every attention.

"This scene was repeated at Chateauroux, Limoges, Brive, and Gourdon. At Cahors young Frenchmen and French women even offered to dance for the Germans. By this time the officers who first had tried to accept these unusual deceptions cheerfully, were frankly sour.

Hear About Radio Threat.

"When the train reached Montauban where the Germans were being transferred, they were told by officers who met them at the station about British and American broadcasts to the French people about the proximity of the time for action. In Montauban the same smiling, cheerful faces greeted the Germans—faces that a month ago had no smiles for them."

Frenchmen from several regions—one from Albi, another from Lyons, and a third from the Riviera—reported that allied broadcasts urging Frenchmen to acquaint themselves with their own districts in order to aid allied forces when the time came, had an obvious reaction.

Many more French men and women than before are taking walks after work or during lunch hours thru the towns and nearby countryside, they said.

No Cause for Arrest.

"The Germans got little satisfaction from the smiles and unusually courteous replies of those whom they questioned," one traveler said. "A few arrests were made but it was difficult to justify arrests for excessive politeness or mere walks for exercise in free areas."

Italians and even Germans reported to their neutral friends in Spain that the new atmosphere in France was one of "excessive collaboration."

2½ Million Tons of Goods Piled Up in U.S. Awaiting Shipment Under Lend-Lease

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—The first inventory ever made public of lend-lease goods in American warehouses shows the impressive total of 2½ million long tons of valuable commodities awaiting shipment to our allies.

Rep. R. F. Jones.

The report was made public today by Rep. Robert F. Jones [R., O.], a member of the house appropriations committee, who secured it from Lend-Lease Administrator Edward R. Stettinius after a pursuit for information extending over three months.

The total of goods in the warehouses includes 1,075,757 tons of food. Statistics gathered by Jones and revealed in a previous article showed that 1½ millions tons of meat alone will be shipped to Great Britain and Russia under lend-lease in 1943.

Gifts for Our Allies.

Many a manufacturer, facing shortages in needed metals for war production, would weep if permitted to inspect the great stores assembled for gifts to our allies.

Listed in the inventory, which was compiled as of May 31, 1943, are 570,590 tons of iron and steel, 46,722 tons of copper, bronze and brass, 2,495 tons of zinc and 6,213 tons of other metals, including tin, lead, aluminum and magnesium.

In the automotive field there were packed and ready for shipment 20,153 tons of vehicles and automotive equipment; 16,315 tons of tires and tubes; 20,222 tons of petroleum products.

These figures do not take into account the mighty stream of war equipment which this nation's factories are turning out for shipment abroad.

Rail Equipment Included.

Railroad equipment [other than rails] totaled 70,158 tons. Marine equipment aggregated 11,130 tons. Grouped under the heading of "military items" were 261,000 tons of material. Also not classified, but marked as "commodities in transit or at port," were 262,720 tons of equipment.

To help farmers in allied countries, lend-lease had assembled 62,419 tons of agricultural and industrial equipment, and 5,681 tons of "ground improvement machinery."

Machine and hand tools, precious to any war-geared community, totaled 39,318 tons. Heaped up under warehouse roofs were 15,218 tons of textiles, clothing, leather, paper and pulp, as well as 8,499 tons of lumber.

Value Is Not Given.

Vital chemicals and drugs totaling 18,147 tons were listed in the inventory, and 1,287 tons of minerals [nonmetallic].

Rounding out the total of 2,533,422 long tons were 19,378 tons of "miscellaneous" commodities.

The value of these stores was not given, but it obviously is a tremendous sum.

Stettinius estimated that it would require about three months to ship the stores listed in the inventory.

Jones had asked for a statement on expected deliveries or transfers under lend-lease to Gen. MacArthur's forces in the southwest Pacific. He planned a comparison between the amounts shipped to MacArthur to assist in the campaign to destroy Japanese military power and the amounts sent to Russia, which is not in the war against Japan, and England.

Shipments Kept Secret.

"It will be impossible to provide you with a statement of deliveries or transfers of materials which are expected to be made in the next six months either to Australia or New Zealand," Stettinius informed him. "As you can appreciate, particular types of defense articles sent to the area must in many cases remain secret.

"Moreover, I cannot with assurance make any estimate of the total amount of defense articles which will be transferred in the next six months since that is to a large extent dependent on many variable factors.

"I have in mind, particularly, the amount of shipping which will be available and the military needs which will develop in the area.

"At the present rate of transfers, however, the value of materials transferred to Australia and New Zealand in the next six months will probably exceed 250 million dollars."

Told Japs Aren't Aided.

Jones also demanded to know what safeguards had been set up by lend-lease to prevent the Japanese from obtaining materials sent to Russia, with whom Japan is not at war.

"We have reviewed this matter at length with the department of state," wrote Stettinius, "which assured us that lend-lease supplies are not reaching Japan."

In a personal interview with Jones, Stettinius asserted that Great Britain had a "lend-lease arrangement" with Russia. He modified this assertion in writing when asked to explain the details of the setup.

"England has no statute which would be termed a lend-lease law," he wrote, "but the arrangement is similar. I am informed that in the United Kingdom appropriatons are not made specifically for supplies to Russia but that such supplies are paid for from general appropriations for war purposes.

"Nonmilitary supplies are provided under an agreement of Aug. 16, 1941, which provides that the two governments will deliver goods to each other at world prices, with contracts in sterling. Any balance in favor of the United Kingdom is paid to the extent of 40 per cent and the remaining 60 per cent is charged against credits granted by the United Kingdom to Russia for this purpose."

"There is not the slightest similarity between this arrangement and our lend-lease program which Winston Churchill correctly described as 'the most charitable act passed by any nation,'" commented Jones.

ESTIMATE NAZIS FORCE 12,000,000 INTO WAR WORK

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 22. — Estimates made here from figures published in the German and neutral press place the number of foreign men and women forcibly included in the German war industry machine at about 12,000,000. At the outbreak of the war there were only 500,000 foreign workers in Germany.

The present total consists partly of prisoners of war, mostly French, Poles, and Russians, partly of civilians deported from countries occupied by the Nazis, and to a lesser extent of nationals of states linked to the reich who are working under regular contract.

The total number working for Hitler within Germany is estimated at more than 28,000,000. In March, 1918, the number engaged in war industries was only 17,000,000. Additional millions are working for the German war machine filling orders placed for arms in occupied countries.

EX-REPORTER TAKEN PRISONER BY NAZIS WHEN 'FORT' IS LOST

Staff Sgt. William F. Mooney, 25 years old, 8149 Eberhart avenue, former City News bureau police reporter, is a war prisoner of Germany, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mooney, were notified yesterday in a telegram from the adjutant general, who said the information was from the International Red Cross.

Sgt. W. F. Mooney.

Sgt. Mooney had been reported missing since the Flying Fortress on which he was a gunner had been shot down over Nantes, France, July 4. He had been awarded the air medal with oak leaf cluster shortly before his capture, having participated in a dozen bombing forays over France and Germany.

Mooney enlisted in the Canadian army on Oct. 13, 1940. He transferred to the American forces a year ago. He is a graduate of St. Leo High school, class of 1935.

RED TAPE SLOWS MANY PARCELS TO JAP CAPTIVES

More than half the American soldiers now prisoners of war in Japan and the Philippines will not receive the first parcels from home on the Swedish liner Gripsholm, members of the Bataan relief organization predicted yesterday.

They blamed Washington red tape and a change in the sailing date of the Gripsholm, an exchange ship, for the confusion.

Mrs. Lucy Palermo, 10406 South Leavitt street, chairman of the group of mothers affiliated with the Bataan organization, said "not more than one-third of the mothers have received the labels for the packages."

The labels are officially issued by the office of the provost marshal general of the army to next of kin of known prisoners. The label sends a package as fourth class mail, and regulations restrict each parcel to a length of 18 inches, an overall length and girth measurement of 42 inches, and a weight of not more than 11 pounds.

The first announcement set the mailing deadline from New York at Sept. 15, but the date has now been advanced to midnight Aug. 27.

RUDE AIRPLANES OF ANOTHER DAY SHOWN IN MOVIE

Picture Presented with Air Power Show.

340,534 VISIT SHOW.

Total attendance at the air power show in Tribune Square given by the army air forces materiel command in coöperation with The Chicago Tribune reached 340,534 last night. Yesterday's attendance was 23,529. The exhibition is open from 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. There is no admission charge.

A score of freak planes, some of which fly and some don't, but all of which contributed to the development of the airplane of today and tomorrow, have been resurrected by the army air forces in a motion picture being presented in the Tribune public service office in connection with the air power show.

The movie, like the rest of the show in Tribune Square, is free.

One plane is The Goose, so called by its inventor because it attempts to imitate the flight of a goose. Two huge paddle wheels replace the usual plane wings. The Goose differed from a goose in one major trait—it didn't fly.

Far Short of Speed Goal.

Another craft, developed in Italy, is called The Barrel because its fuselage is round like a barrel and open at both ends. The propeller is placed in the barrel. By forcing air thru the barrel, the inventor hoped to get 600 or 700 miles per hour speed. The plane flew, but only at a fifth of its dreamed of speed. Another major difficulty was that, with the fuselage open, the plane had little space to carry passengers, freight, or even a crew.

Rocket craft, favorite of pulp magazines and inventors around the world, have a share in the film. One inventor attached wings and rockets to a bicycle. It crashed before the take off, setting fire to the inventor's trousers. A foresighted aide had a bucket of water handy.

Plane Fails to Budge.

Planes which rise vertically are the goal of many inventors. The idea is to have the wing revolve and the plane body remain still, but the difficulty is that as soon as the plane is lifted from the ground, the body is apt to spin like the wing. One inventor shown in the movie put a big rim around his revolving wing. The ring, acting like a gyroscope, would hold the plane steady, he said. The idea is still untested, for the plane wouldn't budge from the ground.

Like most original models, most of the craft are crude, far different from the finished craft used by the air forces. The army is careful to point this out, saying:

"Any similarity between these planes and the air forces' is purely coincidental."

Government Will Buy Milkweed from Farmers

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22 (AP).—A campaign is to be launched soon among farmers in the areas where milkweed grows wild, urging them to pick the pods and sell the floss to the government to replace kapok, which is no longer coming from the Netherlands East Indies.

A GREAT SINGER CALLS FESTIVAL PATRIOTIC TONIC

It Unites All for Victory, Says Edith Mason.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Of the thousands of comments made yesterday and Saturday night on the 14th annual Chicago Music Festival in Solders' field, that of the great operatic soprano, Edith Mason, was one of the most enthusiastic. She stressed the patriotic aspect of this, THE TRIBUNE's second war time music festival.

"No matter how lacking in patriotism anybody may have been, if such an American exists today, last night's marvelous festival would certainly have aroused them to the highest pitch of enthusiasm and patriotism," Miss Mason said.

Lauds Genius of Director.

She also mentioned the friendly, neighborly atmosphere which is such an attractive characteristic of the festival. "You wouldn't think that there could be a feeling of intimacy in a group of 90,000 people," she said, "but Phil Maxwell has a special genius for creating just that feeling." Maxwell is festival director and master of ceremonies.

Nearly everybody, it seems, was impressed by the military pageantry in which the festival program was so rich. There were numerous favorable comments on the visiting contingent of the royal Canadian air force, but naturally the American soldiers, sailors, and marines who participated were first in the hearts of the spectators.

"Eye Appeal" Acclaimed.

The festival's tremendous eye appeal was stressed in comment after comment. "Did you ever see anything like that match lighting ceremony?" a spectator homeward bound on a suburban train was heard to ask her companion. The match lighting ceremony, perhaps the festival's most spectacular feature, has been a fixture since 1938. The stands are darkened and at a signal from the master of ceremonies every one lights a match. The great oval of Soldiers' field is suddenly outlined in fire.

Of course the musical aspects of the festival came in for a great deal of comment. Musically, the festival was an especial delight to those whose hearts pound faster at the thud of drums, but there was something to satisfy nearly every taste.

Hallelujah Chorus Majestic.

At one musical extreme was the majestic "Hallelujah" chorus from Handel's "Messiah," movingly sung by a 2,000 voice choir under Edgar Nelson's direction. At the other was an assortment of jive tunes by the swing band of the 732d military police battalion of Camp Des Plaines. [The leader of the latter group, by the way, was incorrectly given in yesterday's TRIBUNE. He was Corp. Eddie Knox.]

Some patrons liked especially the novel presentation of the triumphal scene from Verdi's "Aida," whose music was performed from the stage at the north end of the arena while a gorgeously costumed triumphal procession consisting of about 500 persons came in stately march up the field. Others enjoyed especially the quaint, crinolined music which accompanied the diverting pageant of old automobiles. Both features were new this year.

The remark which one homebound patron was heard to make may be taken as typical of audience reaction to the festival.

"I never got so much for my money in my life," he said.

RCAF SQUADRON AND BAND VISIT GLENVIEW BASE

The 60 man precision drill squadron and 64 piece band of the royal Canadian air force, visitors to Chicago for the 14th annual Chicago Music Festival Saturday night, yesterday were the guests of the Glenview naval air station.

The visit began at noon when the enlisted men shared Sunday dinner with the American sailors and the Canadian officers were entertained at the officers' club. Every enlisted man received a souvenir billfold and gifts were presented to the officers.

Take Swim in Pool.

After dinner, the group was taken on a tour of the station. There was no interruption of the normal routine and the Canadian visitors saw training planes landing and taking off. A swim in the station pool followed.

Refreshed from their swim, the Canadians witnessed the weekly review of about 600 naval aviation cadets.

On the reviewing stand were Capt. George C. Montgomery, commanding officer of the station; Group Capt. David E. MacKell, leader of the Canadian group. Comdr. Truman C. Penney, and Lt. Comdr. I. E. Sommermeyer of the station staff. Lt. Luther DeForest led the review.

Squadron Stages Drill.

After the review, the Canadian squadron drilled for the station personnel and the Canadian band played.

The Canadians left Chicago for their bases last night, the drill squadron going to Montreal and the band to Ottawa.

REP. RANDOLPH HAILS TRIBUNE CAR FUEL TEST

Congressman Seeking Petroleum Substitute.

BY HAL FOUST.

Rep. Jennings Randolph [D., W. Va.], chairman of a house subcommittee investigating substitutes for petroleum, last night complimented THE TRIBUNE's research in motor fuels and synthetic rubber.

"In 10 years," the congressman predicted, "40 to 50 per cent of the internal combustion engines in America will be using fuel other than petroleum. THE TRIBUNE is to be commended for its foresight in helping to prepare America for this future.

"Synthetic gasoline from shale and coal will become economically practical as reserves of oil are depleted. As cheap petroleum is exhausted there will be an increasing demand for alcohol from wood waste and from agricultural surpluses. Charcoal will also have its field as a motor fuel.

Gas Shortage to Continue.

"After the war we'll have an era of wings and wheels requiring all of the motor fuel that can be produced from all sources. Petroleum alone will not be enough. The war time shortage of gasoline will continue. In some regions and in some services the economic supply of a substitute will be hydrogenated shale or coal, and in other regions and other services it will be alcohol or charcoal."

Randolph's compliments were directed to THE TRIBUNE's war time projects dramatized at the Music Festival by the departure of a research car, riding on Trib-buna rubber, powered by charcoal, and driven by the writer, accompanied by competent technicians. The tires, of a special batch produced by Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, were made of synthetic with the main ingredient derived from The Tribune's pioneer sulphite liquor alcohol plant at its Canadian woodpulp mills.

Experts Accompany Writer.

Two distinguished guests accompanied the writer when he circled Soldiers' field. They were Miss Dorothy Mackenzie, president of M. and R. Products, manufacturer of the charcoal burning apparatus, and Dr. L. B. Sebrell, Goodyear research director.

Dr. Sebrell, in recognition of his work in synthetic rubber, received the 1943 annual Charles Goodyear Memorial award of the American Chemical society. Miss Mackenzie, born in Brooklyn, is an inventor and a manufacturer. With her engineer partner, George H. Wolfe, she made gasogenes, charcoal burners for automobiles, in Italy and France before returning to the United States two years ago to make this equipment for lend-lease shipment to China.

Rep. Randolph said that the gasoline of the future was going to be more costly than it is today and that the production of substitutes would be reduced in cost by the recovery and sale of all available by-products.

Tribune Operates First Plant.

"To make a gallon of gasoline from petroleum," he said, "costs about 5 cents while a gallon of synthetic gasoline from shale or coal costs about 12 cents."

As an example of alcohol production economically integrated with other production, Randolph mentioned THE TRIBUNE's operations in the first plant of its kind in the western hemisphere. There the alcohol is salvaged from sulphite liquor, a pollutant waste under normal practices of the American woodpulp industry.

The congressman mentioned the correlated production of charcoal and chemicals by the Dow Chemical company and by the Ford Motor company in Michigan. There waste wood is distilled for its oils, alcohols, and acids, leaving charcoal as a residue by-product in the kilns.

First Lesson Learned Quickly.

THE TRIBUNE's experiments with charcoal as a gasoline substitute for certain motor services developed its first lesson immediately upon leaving Soldiers' field.

A one wheel trailer, contrived from available materials, was too frail for its load of fuel bins, gas generators, filters, and coolers.

While a new one is being designed and built, the highway test of Trib-buna rubber tires will continue with the passenger car burning gasoline, but with an accompanying truck, also owned by THE TRIBUNE, burning charcoal much of the distance. The truck is equipped with Trib-buna tires, too.

Neighbors Unveil Portrait of Yank Killed in Africa

Friends and neighbors of Sgt. Gerrit Pruim J., who was killed in action in Africa in April, gathered at the unveiling of his portrait yesterday at 110th street and Normal avenue. A neighbor, Gus Grantner, 458 West 111th street, painted the portrait from a picture that appeared in THE TRIBUNE. Mr. and Mrs. Pruim live at 10917 Eggleston avenue.

SOUTH SIDE GROCER ROBBED.

Sander Lindefield, operator of a grocery at 1619 East 69th street, reported last night to Woodlawn police that two men robbed him of $45.

URGES NATION TO FIGHT U. S. SPENDING SPREE

Willis Fears Dictatorship by Taxation.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 22 [Special].—Asserting that the American people are in danger of losing their form of government, United States Sen. Raymond E. Willis [R., Ind.] today called upon the nation's citizens to combat the growing threat of dictatorship on the home front.

Sen. Raymond Willis.

If this nation is ever wrecked, Sen. Willis said, it will not be wrecked by communism, centralization, regimentation, or war, but "by insane and profligate public expenditures and by devastating taxation."

"It will be wrecked," he continued, "because private capital in the form of personal and corporate savings is constantly being sucked out from the people and transferred to Washington and put into public enterprises. Once this process runs its course, private enterprise dies and local and state governments wither or decay. Demagogs and dictators rise and rule."

Says Progress Throttled.

Sen. Willis, veteran Angola, Ind., publisher, was the principal speaker at the annual picnic sponsored by the River Park Republican club at River park. James Oliver II. was master of ceremonies and Mrs. L. H. Humphrey, active club member, was picnic chairwoman.

Charging that the administration is throttling the economic progress of the nation to maintain its political control, the senator said:

"The administration believes that if it can prevent the American people from making their own goods, and thus make us dependent upon foreign supplies of old fashioned goods, we shall be forced to embrace the administration's foreign policy."

Raps Foreign Policy.

Sen. Willis described this policy as a "regimented power-politics economy thruout the world." He urged a reversal of such a policy by the adoption of a program that would "encourage the philosophy and practice of free enterprise to expand thruout the world."

Pointing to price control, rubber control, and the increasing pressure on all types of business, the senator averred that in Washington this war is not considered merely a defense against foreign foes, "but also a war of aggression against domestic American traditions and freedoms."

One of the chief dangers, Sen. Willis said, is that of government by executive decree instead of by congress. He reviewed "the soothing and seductive promises of the Great White Father in Washington . . . promising all sorts of relief from their ills." These promises, he said, led to frequent executive decrees and "must" measures to congress, with the result that the executive, rather than the representatives in congress, determined the major policies of government.

Fears Rule by Minority.

"The test of this confusion and corruption . . . may come any day," the senator declared. "Congress may attempt by law to nullify an executive decree. The executive may veto it, and with the support of one-third of his supine supporters in congress, make the veto stick. Then you will have government by one-third of the members in congress, plus the executive."

Sen. Willis concluded by reporting that the growing concern of the people toward the dangers of dictatorship has been reflected in "a stiffened effort" by members of congress of both political parties to restore the American republic to its rightful role as preserver of liberties of a deserving people.

MISS DAPHNE ROBERT.

Women who choose to remain in the labor force when war is done should not be accused of usurping men's jobs, Miss Margaret A. Hickey, chairman of the women's advisory committee of the war man power commission, said last night at the 44th annual convention of the National Association of Women Lawyers in the Knickerbocker hotel. "It is true," she said, "that we may have many more workers than we need, but let us make certain that the weeding out process is on the basis of ability rather than sex."

New officers of the association were elected at yesterday's session. Miss Daphne Robert, Atlanta, Ga., was elected president. New vice presidents are Miss Laura E. Miller, Louisville, Ky.; Miss Phoebe Muenecke, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Rose Zetzer, Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Ethel E. Murrell, Miami, Fla. Mrs. Charlotte Doolittle White, Chicago, became treasurer.

CHURCH EDITOR PREDICTS DOOM OF BUREAU RULE

Planned Economy Faces Revolt, Methodist Says.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The doom of planned economy is foreseen in the leading editorial of the current issue of the Christian Advocate, official publication of the Methodist church. The writer of the editorial, Dr. Roy L. Smith, editor of the weekly journal, compared public reaction against planned economy with public resentment against prohibition.

"In the post-war world," the editorial stated, "when social control is suggested, Mr. John Q. Citizen will ask, 'Is rationing what you mean? Are you aiming at priorities again? Are we to live under alphabetical bureaus again?' And told that it will be 'something like that,' he will steadfastly refuse."

Confidence Being Destroyed.

Dr. Smith explained that, to be successful, planned economy must be based on confidence in government and the willingness of the people to coöperate with government. He said that the country is living on war time planned economy now, but let the war end and the people's docility will disappear.

"That confidence [in the government] is being destroyed by blunders in high places with the result that very serious questions are arising in the minds of the people," he said. "Unseemly controversies between high officials, in which personal animosities have been all too prominent, are not the least cause of this loss in public faith in governmental processes.

Popular Resentment Created.

"The American people, on the whole, accepted gasoline rationing with considerable good humor. But when suspicion began to develop that a considerable quantity of dubious politics was mixed with the gasoline quota, their attitude began to change.

"As the belief spreads that their sacrifices are being manipulated resentment displaces good humor. Having given their sons, they stand ready to sacrifice their businesses also. But when they become suspicious that these same sacrifices are being used in a way that privileged interests become the beneficiary, their whole attitude changes.

"Too much private enterprise has been taken over. There has been too much invasion of private lives by public agencies.

"The present rationing and priority system, as we watch it administered, is preparing the ground for a revolt against all forms of social control of economic operations by legislative action."

Every day in every way—

THIS MAN IS SERVING YOU

YOU may think of him only as an Erie man—one of the more than a million American railroad men engaged in keeping trains operating.

But see how his activities are reflected in your daily life.

Daily delivery by the mailman to your door is evidence that this Erie man is on the job getting trains through in all kinds of weather.

Your daily newspaper put on the front steps by your newsboy is made possible by the tons of newsprint, ink, and metal the railroad delivers to the publishers.

Those fresh vegetables, fruits, and other foods you get from your grocer are the results of shipments brought in from all parts of the country by railroads.

Bread from the local baker, milk delivered by your milkman, fuel from your fuel dealer, electricity and gas from your public utilities, even the furniture in your home—all these and many other things you enjoy can be traced back to the products, supplies, and materials brought to your community by the Erie and other American railroads.

And when war came, the defense of our country and the protection of our families rested heavily upon the ability of these railroads to rush men, munitions, and supplies where they were needed most.

Our war plants and war workers depend upon the railroads to deliver raw materials and rush finished equipment to the fighting front.

No wonder this Erie Railroad man is proud of his job—proud of the part he is playing in making the American way of life a symbol of hope to the rest of the world.

The best and cheapest transportation in all the world is the service given by American Railroads. This is being proved in war and will continue to be proved in peace.

BUNGLING PERILS FOOD SUPPLIES, LANDIS CHARGES

Potato Spoilage Termed Minor Example.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22. — Thousands of tons of foodstuffs have rotted in fields and spoiled in government warehouses because of bungling of federal authorities, Rep. Gerald W. Landis [R., Ind.] said today in a statement.

Rep. G. W. Landis.

Landis, speaking as chairman of the subcommittee on fruits and vegetables for the Republican congressional food study committee, said thousands of carloads of government purchased potatoes have been permitted to spoil and added that this was relatively minor when compared with the government's vast wastage of food thruout the country.

He said reports showed that thousands of tons of peas, carrots, tomatoes, and other foodstuffs are being lost as a result of waste directly attributable to administration policies.

Potato Dumping Admitted.

The war food administration admitted recently it had dumped one and a half carloads of potatoes which had been stored in warehouses in Vincennes, Ind. Thirty-seven carloads had been stored there. The WFA said it had purchased 6,422 carloads of potatoes to support what it described as a market abandoned by commercial buyers and that approximately 50 carloads had been lost, apparently as a result of spoilage.

"If the criminal waste of potatoes were an isolated mistake, it would be bad enough," Landis said, "but actually it is only one example of how burocratic blundering is paving the way for a serious food shortage in the nation.

"Crops are spoiling in the fields and in the warehouses because some burocrat who learned about agriculture by eating three square meals a day has imposed some impossible regulation somewhere down the line. The canning industry has lost 30 per cent of the 1943 vegetable pack because of this bungling.

Fields Plowed Under.

"Reports from Sacramento, Cal., say that thousands of tons of pears will go unharvested due to a ceiling price below the cost of production. San Diego, Cal., reports that numerous fields producing squash and cabbage have been plowed under for like reasons. Information from New York is that 150 million pounds of potatoes—a fourth of the total North Carolina-Virginia crop—have been wasted.

"In the Rochester, N. Y., neighborhood it is estimated 16 carloads of potatoes have been permitted to spoil. Dinuba, Cal., reports that millions of pounds of carrots and many tons of potatoes and tomatoes have been dumped. In Fresno, Cal., one grower was compelled to plow under 400 acres of peas for want of pickers. Crookston, Minn., reports that from eight to 10 carloads of potatoes were dumped in a sandpit there. In Philadelphia, Pa., it is reported 500 carloads spoiled. Toledo, O., also reports many carloads were permitted to spoil.

"If the boys in the armed services and our civilian population are to be fed adequately this winter, the American people must demand that some sensible food policies be adopted by the national administration in Washington. They must insist that the Henry Wallace philosophy of scarcity be abandoned and that men be placed in charge of our food production and distribution who know something about such problems."

A burglar broke into a shoe shop at 4155 Archer avenue, but instead of taking shoes, stole 25 No. 18 shoe ration coupons and $197 in cash, the owner, Stanley Pokorski, 3112 Marquette road, reported to police yesterday.

GREEKS LAUDED; PEACE REWARDS URGED FOR THEM

Actor Pair Hail Them for Resistance.

The patriotism and suffering of Greece in resisting Germany and Italy must be remembered in the peace conference after the war, 3,000 Chicago Greek-Americans were told last night at a meeting in the Chicago Civic Opera house. The meeting was held for the benefit of the Greek underground movement.

Katina Paxinou.

Principal speakers were Katina Paxinou, Greek motion picture actress who plays in the current motion picture, "For Whom the Bell Tolls," and her husband, Alexis Minotis, a Greek actor.

"Now that the end is drawing near, it is time to remind the world of the sacrifices of the Greeks," said Miss Paxinou. Her husband said the allied nations must "consider Greek sacrifices at the peace table."

Actress on Torpedoed Ship.

Both Miss Paxinou and Minotis have seen first hand the horrors of war. She was on a ship that was torpedoed en route to America. Her husband was held prisoner by the Germans in Greece, worked with the Greek underground and finally escaped to Turkey.

Minotis told the audience of some of his experiments. He fled from Athens two days before the Germans arrived but his ship was bombed by Stukas. More than 800 British soldiers were killed, he said, and he himself was wounded.

He fell into the hands of the Germans at a Red Cross hospital. Shortly thereafter he fell under Nazi suspicion as the result of an anti-Nazi broadcast from London by his wife.

Escapes to Turkey.

In October, 1941, he related, he and seven Greek officials escaped by boat to Turkey only to be turned back to a small Greek island. Twenty-one days later, a German spy, posing as a Greek, turned him over to the authorities. He was jailed for several weeks, then later rejoined the underground. In March, 1942, he escaped to Turkey.

Minotis finally reached Cairo, Egypt, from where he flew to America via Clipper.

GUARD LIBERTY AT 1944 POLLS, LYONS PLEADS

The principles of republican government will be on trial in the national election of 1944, Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville, a probable Republican candidate for United States senator, told nearly 2,000 party members at the seventh annual 50th ward Republican organization picnic held yesterday in Riverview park.

Richard J. Lyons.

"When I say republicanism I mean Americanism," Lyons told his audience.

Urges United Campaign.

Lyons declared the 1944 campaign will be the most momentous since the election of Abraham Lincoln. He urged party members to forget minor disagreements and unite in the national campaign, emphasizing particularly the importance of electing senators and congressmen, who will have the power to determine the future course of government.

He warned that Illinois already has 117,000 federal payrollers in the state, not including those in the military services, and added, "I will not be surprised to see 200,000 here by election time."

"When we plan for the post-war world," Lyons said, "let us not forget that our first plan should be to assure the welfare, both physical and economic, of our 12 million sons and daughters when they come back after winning this war."

Lyons Becomes Grandfather.

Lyons announced to the picnic throng his new status as grandfather. His daughter, Lucille Mae, who is the wife of Capt. Dan Lee Smith, gave birth early yesterday morning to a 6 pound 10 ounce daughter, who has been named Sandra Lee. Capt. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emery J. Smith of Riverside, is serving with the air forces at Fort Myers, Fla.

Joseph F. Novotny, president of the ward organization, presided at the speaking program. Other speakers included State Sen. William Knox, State Representatives Allan Ashcraft and Stanley Armstrong, and former State Sen. James J. Barbour. Jens M. Jensen is ward committeeman.

PUZZLED POLICE RAID CHINESE GAME, ARREST 7

A squad from the Pekin police district made a raid on the backroom of a coffee shop at 2211 Wentworth avenue, in the heart of Chinatown, yesterday afternoon and arrested Git Gee, 56 years old, 148 West Cermak road, as the keeper of a gambling house.

The game being played mystified the police. Detective James Micus, leader of the squad, said he saw $110 cash on a table, together with chips and pieces of paper on which Chinese characters and numbers were marked. Six players, who were also arrested, stood about the table.

The detective said he asked a bystander what the game was and was told, "You play with coins and you can lose a lot." Thereupon the police stopped the game and made the arrests.

YOUNG MOTHER RAPED; POINTS OUT ASSAILANT

A young mother was assaulted and raped in her third floor apartment in the 700 block on North Dearborn street early yesterday by a Negro. At a police showup later in the day she identified Frank Hooper, 38 years old, 608 North Wells street, as her assailant. Police said Hooper had been released 10 days ago from the penitentiary after serving 16 years for robbery.

The victim said she was alone in the room except for her 11 month old baby in his crib, when the Negro entered the apartment and seized her. She described him as wearing a blue shirt. When she screamed, she said, he beat her with a shoe, blackening and wounding her face around one eye. Her husband had gone to work in a restaurant.

Hooper was arrested lounging in front of the Chicago avenue police station. He was then wearing a white shirt, but police said they found a wrinkled blue shirt under the bed in his room.

Samuel Wright, Negro, accused as a rapist and burglar, also was confronted at the showup by victims of other crimes, including rape. Wright, 19, who wore white gloves in an attempt to avoid detection, has been identified, Hyde Park police said, in four rapes, 15 burglaries, and one purse snatching. No new identifications were made yesterday.

HALT NEW DEAL GRAB OF POWER, COWLES PLEADS

Under the Roosevelt administration the United States has fallen too much into the hands of the federal government, Gardner Cowles Jr., Des Moines publisher who recently resigned as domestic director of the office of war administration, told cheering members of the Junior Bar conference and the American Bar association in the Drake hotel yesterday.

Warning against a drift toward further governmental control, Cowles said: "Mme. Chiang Kai-shek once quoted an old Chinese proverb that goes: 'Govern as you would cook a small fish; don't overdo it.' I wish Washington would memorize that proverb."

Cowles said government planning and unemployment compensation cannot prevent a post-war depression.

"Real jobs in private industry are the only solution," he said.

Cowles branded as "sabotage" the present tendency to make sudden changes in rules laid down for business by government.

JUSTICE RETURNS TO PHILADELPHIA.

Judge J. Cullen Ganey, sitting in federal District court at Philadelphia, has ruled that the army has no right to banish Mrs. Olga Schueller, a naturalized citizen of German birth, and exile her from the eastern defense area on grounds that she is considered by the army as a potential danger to "national security."

Mrs. Schueller, who operates a restaurant in Philadelphia, was given a railroad ticket and $40 and told to get out of town in 10 days. This verdict came from a three-man military commission after a brief hearing last December.

The army made no specific charge against Mrs. Schueller, refused to let her have counsel, refused to produce witnesses who may have testified against her, refused to let her cross-examine any such witnesses, and violated about every section of the Constitution and Bill of Rights governing the right of a citizen to trial.

There had been no interruption in the process of civil courts in Philadelphia. The army had not declared martial law. Under the circumstances, Judge Ganey could render no decision other than the one he handed down. He had plenty of law to back him up, stemming directly from the Constitution and bolstered by some of the most resounding opinions ever returned by the United States Supreme court.

The question of Mrs. Schueller's guilt, whether she really committed any seditious acts or imperiled the security of the nation, can be decided in the civil courts if the government decides to indict her. The wrong was done in the method by which judgment was rendered against her and in the nature of the "court" that rendered it.

Persons accused of far more serious crimes against our government than anything that can be imagined against this Philadelphia restaurant operator have been restrained and punished in federal courts without imperiling constitutional rights. Illinois' first treason trial, the so-called Haupt case, is one of the recent examples.

The Schueller incident appears to be the result of over-enthusiasm and misdirected zeal on the part of the army, rather than any deliberate plot to abrogate constitutional rights. Judge Ganey's decision should be a warning to army and navy officers in command of civilian zones that you can't kick American citizens around irresponsibly, no matter how patriotic your motives or how sincere your concern.

The Schueller incident also demonstrated that just as much harm can be done to national security thru over-zealousness and careless misuse of power as the deadliest of spies can do. Army and navy officers may be responsible for our security in certain zones, but they should know what we are fighting for in this war if any one does.

Surely they do not believe that American justice and security can be won on the battlefronts while it is being trampled down at home.

THE SOLDIERS MUST VOTE.

One of the two Democratic champions of votes for soldiers, Sen. Green of Rhode Island, is apparently backing away from his own proposal. He says that while he is still satisfied that the bill that he and Sen. Lucas of Illinois sponsored is constitutional, other members of the senate have expressed doubts on that score.

Sen. Green's coolness to his own proposal comes at a time when army officials are objecting to the provision for registering votes by V-mail. The army's objections are the same that were advanced by THE TRIBUNE when the bill was introduced. The use of V-mail destroys the secrecy of the ballot and, as army authorities now point out, makes it possible for those engaged in the transmission of the ballots to engage in wholesale vote frauds.

The Roosevelt administration has been strangely evasive on the proposition that the men who are risking their lives for this country have the greatest right of any citizens to a voice in its government. Last year, after congress had provided for balloting for soldiers, Secretaries Knox and Stimson sabotaged the plan. They pleaded that shipping space was not available, yet found space for tons of OWI tripe.

Sen. Green cools to his own vote bill about the time that army officials point out its vote stealing possibilities and suggest a method of making it honest. Elmer Davis, who has been seasoning his OWI publications with fourth term propaganda, returns from abroad feigning anxiety that men overseas won't be given the chance to familiarize themselves with the election issues, then solves his pretended dilemma with the announcement that Lt. Gen. Somervell will furnish the information. Lt. Gen. Somervell is the only pronounced New Dealer in the army command. His jurisdiction, over the army supply forces, is in general confined to this country.

Apparently the New Dealers don't want the soldiers to vote, but if they do vote, want gambling house odds for the fourth term.

We don't know how the men in the army and navy will vote in next year's election, but we do know that they must be allowed to vote. It is the duty of the Republicans in congress to pick up the ball where the Democrats have dropped it, push thru a practicable, fraud-proof system of collecting soldiers' ballots, and then see that the administration does not sabotage the scheme as it did the 1942 plan.

FORCED SAVINGS.

Two persons recently discussed their financial problems with a member of our staff. Their incomes were approximately the same—between $5,000 and $6,000. Henry's income is now nearly twice as much as it was in 1939. He has just paid off the mortgage on his house. John is making about half of the average for the years 1936 to 1941. He is trying to sell his house.

Their incomes are equal now, but during the war one man's income has been doubled, while the other's has been cut in half. While Henry has been enabled to get out of debt, John has been obliged to go into debt. The corporation income tax distinguishes between the company which has been enriched by the war and the one which has been impoverished by it, but the personal income tax makes no such distinction. John and Henry are taxed alike.

Compulsory war bond buying has been advocated by the President and War Mobilization Director Byrnes. The test proposed is net income—the same as that for the income tax—but the assumption that persons of equal income have equal ability to save is wholly unsound. Henry has a large surplus and can invest 25 per cent of his income without difficulty, but John has a deficit and cannot buy any bonds at all. He is no less patriotic than Henry. He is just in the unfortunate position of having established his family on a plane of living that he is finding it difficult to reduce and of having made commitments he can't or is unwilling to renege on.

That's the main objection to forced savings. If the government goes thru with a plan to force every one with the same income to buy the same amount of bonds it will impose great hardships upon large numbers of people. Defaults on obligations and bankruptcies will be inevitable.

More bonds can be sold than at present on a voluntary basis to individuals who can afford them. Possibly a little higher rate of return is needed, or maybe limited tax exemption would help. To raise more money for the war, more flexibility rather than more rigidity is called for. Forced saving is not the American way and other expedients should be tried before resorting to it.

ON TO TOKIO.

The news from the Aleutians echoes the tidings from New Georgia and Salamaua. The fronts are 5,000 miles apart, but the same story is being repeated with only a change of details wherever Yank and Jap meet in battle; everywhere we have the initiative and are advancing and they are in retreat. We are slowly pushing them out of the Solomons and New Guinea and threatening their base at Rabaul. Five thousand miles to the north we have forced them to abandon Kiska, their last remaining toehold off the American continent.

Nevertheless, the war is still far from won. Thousands of miles still separate us from Tokio, and there is still a lot of fight left in the little yellow savages. They are the toughest of our foes. We were more startled to read of the surrender in a South Seas roundup of 300 unarmed Japanese survivors of a naval disaster than we were to learn of the surrender of a hundred thousand Italians and Germans in Sicily.

The Japs are fanatical, and brutal. They have been planning this war and preparing for it for 50 years at least. They sent their brightest young men to our universities to learn our science and are now using their stolen knowledge against us. With oriental cunning they waited until they thought we were too heavily involved in the European war to fight them, and then they struck with everything they had.

They murdered our airmen. They raped nuns and army nurses in Hongkong. They drove their bayonets into the bellies of Canadian prisoners just for practice. They have butchered unarmed Chinese and ravished their women. They are barbarians with a college education, and as long as they are capable of making war, just so long can there be no letup in our efforts to destroy them.

There is no longer any doubt that we can and will defeat Japan. The only question is when. If we give Tojo time to consolidate new defenses, the war may last for years. If we give him no respite and throw heavier and heavier land, sea, and air forces against him we can finish off the job within a reasonably short space of time.

Our great disadvantage is distance and the lack of bases which bear upon Japan proper. The Japanese must also fight at a distance from home, but they have more and better bases, and their army was better prepared by far than we were for fighting in the equatorial jungles. It may be true, as some American and Australian observers have said, that man for man the Jap is still a better jungle fighter than the American, but there are other and more important factors in our favor.

Flyer for flyer, airplane for airplane, naval vessel for naval vessel, we far outclass them. In all these branches we have qualitative superiority and in most of them quantitative superiority also, and certainly our advantage can grow as the war proceeds. They probably cannot replace their ships and planes as fast as we are presently destroying them. However good the Japanese soldiers may be, they are bound to lose when they are deprived of supplies and reinforcements. That was the story of Guadalcanal, of Munda, of Attu, of Kiska, and of every other test of strength.

The end of the Japanese terror will come quickly if the Pacific fronts are not slighted by our high command. The great danger and the only danger is that the Japs will be given time in which to build up their strength. The sooner we move against them in great force the sooner their mad challenge to the western world will have been answered for all time. Our slogan must be, "On to Tokio."

THE LA SCALA BLUES.

A few words about the Teatro della Scala of Milan may be apropos, since radio announcers in Rome have been lamenting its destruction by bombing. It has been Italy's most famous lyric theater and opera headquarters. For 165 years its name has been a world synonym for high standards of opera singing and production.

* * *

That name, by the way, deserves an explanation. As a common noun it means a stairway, a ladder, or a scale, and does not suggest opera house glamor. But it happens to be a family name. The site was formerly occupied by the church of Santa Maria della Scala, named after its founder, Beatrice della Scala, wife of Bernabo Visconti, whose family ruled Milan for centuries.

* * *

The theater's founder was Empress Maria Theresa of Austria, who ordered it built for the cultural improvement of her domain in Lombardy. History and literature have been razzing the former Austrian tyrants of northern Italy for more than a century, but the fact remains that the hated house of Hapsburg started Milan on its career in the big league of opera. Maria Theresa issued her order in 1775, when the ducal theater was destroyed by fire, and La Scala was dedicated on Aug. 3, 1778.

* * *

The building, facing a plaza named after it, has a formal Renaissance exterior. The interior, more often shown in pictures because it represents the standard type of European opera house, old style, has an auditorium of horseshoe shape with seven tiers of boxes rising above the orchestra floor. The space behind the curtain line is exactly as deep as the auditorium. The depth of the foyer and promenade is almost one-half that of the auditorium. So it may be seen that there is, or was, plenty of room at La Scala for the social, musical, and mechanical functions of opera in the grand style. Remodelings in 1867 and 1921 have kept the house up to modern requirements.

* * *

Among the many world premières at La Scala, the following items in the current repertory may be mentioned: Verdi's "Otello" and "Falstaff," Boito's "Mefistofele," Puccini's "Mme. Butterfly" and "Turandot," Donizetti's "Lucrezia Borgia," and Ponchielli's "La Gioconda." . . . It might be added that Toscanini was maestro at La Scala from 1898 to 1908, and from 1921 to 1929.

SONG OF THE OPEN(?) ROAD.

Sing hey, sing ho for the open road,
 Where erstwhile travelers trod
When they took a load from their own abode
 To gambol on alien sod.
Sing a sad heigh-ho for the days that were,
 And the happy touring flock.
  With a heart that's sad and heavy,
  I pat my cobwebbed Chevvie,

Sing a gay rondelay for the sights to see
 In the days we could get to 'em;
When the scenes were free, we laughed with glee,
 And drove like sixty thru 'em.
Sing a sad heigh-ho for the days that were
 And the carefree touring flock.
  With no sense of deep elation
  I scan my scanty ration

Third item: Able to say, "O, it's the third time!" and maintain partial control over voice. May appear faintly smug, but secretly believes it to be another mistake.

Fourth item: Changes hair-do, buys new lipstick, and can't stop smiling. Absentmindedness sets in.

Fifth item: Warm glow, persisting for days. Tender thoughts for the Line, the Linemaster, and the whole world. Household shows increasing signs of neglect; unbedazzled husband exasperated about socks, buttons, dust, dishes, etc., etc. At times, hearing fails entirely.

Sixth item: Suffers from suppressed strutting. Definitely believes in miracles and recklessly spends 85 cents for ream of paper.

Seventh item: Dreamily wonders what she will wear to the contributors' dinner.

FLYING ACES.

Kelly, Beurling, Foss, and Bong are names
 Americans can speak with loyal pride,
For all suggest the spirit which inflames
 The hero when quick danger's at his side.
Focke-Wulfs and Zeros, Messerschmitts have felt
 The toppling menace of their well-aimed fire,
And more and more will flaming missiles melt
 The foeman's strength until his troops retire.

Our flying aces come from many states;
 Their varied names suggest no kindred race,
But all are sure that they have kindred fates
 And that one land can all of them embrace.
That land which sends such men to distant skies
Is surely one which all at home should prize.

How to Keep Well
By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

PARASITES—OTHER ENEMIES OF OUR SOLDIERS.

It is not surprising that our station hospitals in North Africa are encountering numerous maladies foreign to our shores. Few American physicians have had opportunities to observe many of the parasitic diseases at first hand and to study their complications.

Such difficulties as malaria, typhus, undulant and dengue fevers, syphilis, hookworm, dysentery, etc., have flourished in our midst. Thanks to good hygiene, many have been stamped out. Nevertheless, our soldiers overseas are exposed daily and only because of strict vaccination and adherence to preventive measures are they spared serious consequences.

One rather strange ailment is carried by a parasite known as the "blood fluke" [Bilharzia], which abounds in parts of Africa, Palestine, Arabia, Syria, India, and China. The infection comes to the unwary thru contaminated fruits, vegetables, and water.

The young resemble minute tadpoles and develop in the bodies of snails, from which they are set free. When taken into the human digestive tract they find their way into the lymphatic spaces or the small veins of the liver, where they attain maturity. Symptoms appear 30 to 50 days thereafter, when the worms reach the bladder and rectum, causing ulceration. The patient will exhibit an irritable bladder with dull pains in the groin, and the output of the kidneys will be stained with blood. Then follows chronic inflammation of the urinary pouch with thickening of its walls.

Fortunately, we have an excellent antidote in the metal, antimony. Salts of this element can be administered directly into a vein and, when given in increasing doses, will destroy the invaders after a time.

Another widespread disorder, also caused by an animal form, is leishmaniasis, which exists where our forces are now stationed. It is transmitted from man to an insect carrier and various sorts of vermin have been blamed, including fleas and bedbugs. One type of this trouble, Oriental sore or Bagdad boil, is probably spread by sandflies.

Hydatid disease [a minute tapeworm] is prevalent in areas bordering on the basin which separates southern Europe from Africa. This species is transferred by animals. A survey made in Syria showed that 22 per cent of the sheep slaughtered in Beirut were afflicted with hydatid cysts. In the same region, 45 per cent of the cattle were diseased. In this condition, the adult worm is carried into the intestine of the dog and may be regarded as the smallest of all our tapeworms. Thoro cooking of native meats will kill these loathsome and unwelcome guests.

Only a brief survey is necessary to lead us to appreciate what cleanliness and modern sanitation have accomplished for health. But we must be on guard because returning heroes may unwittingly plant some of their new acquisitions in American communities.

EYE DISORDER.

A. P. writes: What causes detached retina?

REPLY.

Fluids form behind the retina, causing the layers to bulge forward or tear. In such circumstances, the structure is freed from its bed [detached]. Blows and falls are thought to be causative.

SKIN DEFECT.

S. W. writes: What is an angioma?

REPLY.

A small cluster of blood vessels anywhere in the body. Usually observed on the skin, the lesions are termed "birthmarks."

GREENISH STOOLS.

C. S. R. writes: Does a greenish cast to the discharges over a period of months indicate liver disease?

REPLY.

Probably not. The diet may be responsible.

HOLLOW-EYED.

J. C. H. writes: What causes sunken eyes?

REPLY.

Fatigue and poor circulation. Sometimes the appearance is deceiving, due to swollen upper lids and bags beneath the optics.

HARD OF HEARING.

G. H. writes: What type of deafness is inherited?

REPLY.

More commonly, trouble with the nerve of hearing. There is said to be a family tendency also to otosclerosis.

NOT IN THIS STRUCTURE.

V. T. writes: Is there such a thing as arthritis of the bladder?

REPLY.

It may feel like it but the disease proper is confined to the bones.

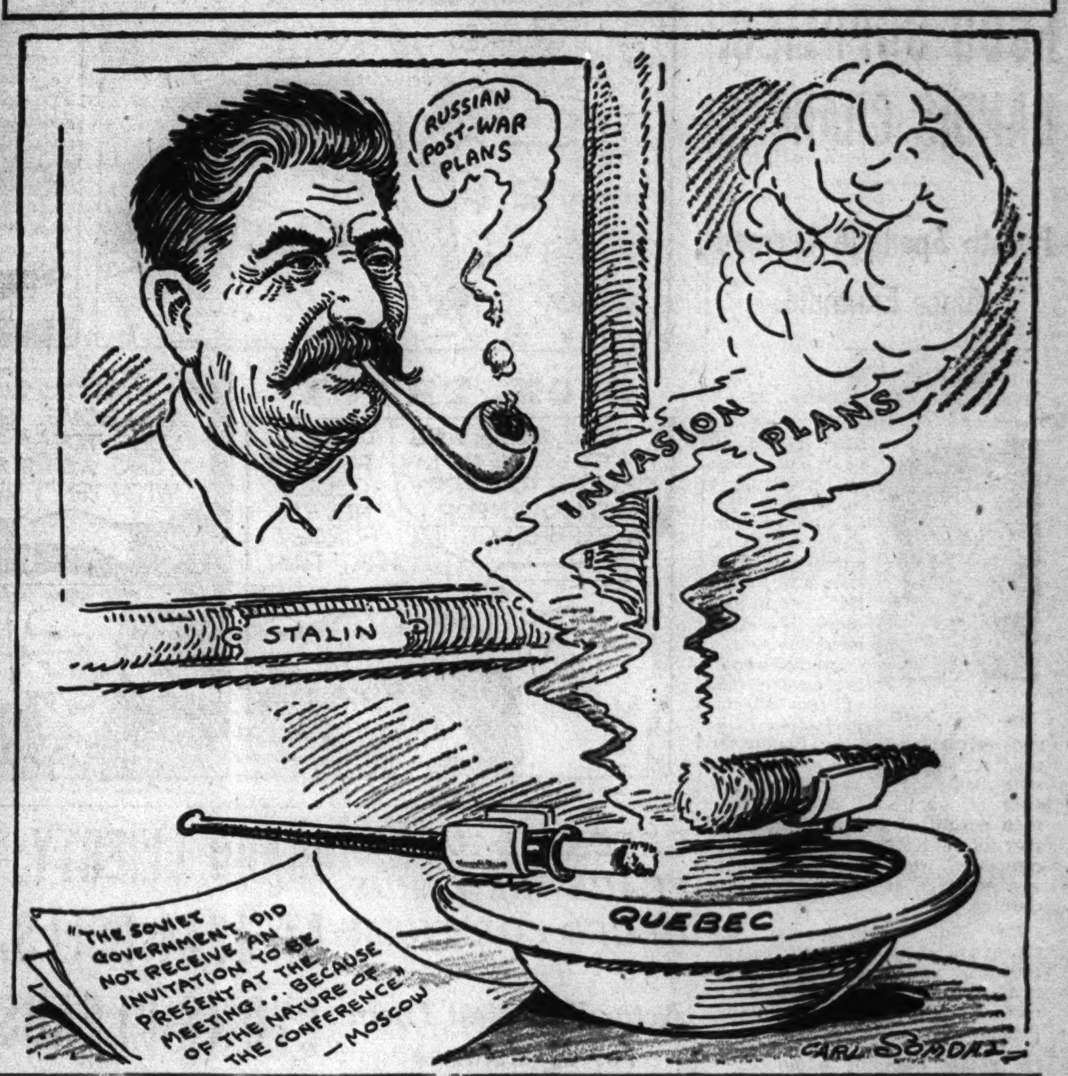
THAT PIPE OF PEACE



Front Views & Profiles
By MARCIA WINN

World Lighted from Within.

If you have been in a railroad station in the last year, you must have been impressed by the patience of the thousands who sit and wait and wait and wait for a train to come or a train to leave. Weaving with fatigue and lack of sleep, frightened by the hubbub of a metropolitan railroad center, afraid to go get a sandwich for fear their train will be called while they are out, they sit and sit and sit.

The most weary and the most patient, according to a volunteer who works daily beneath the lighted, friendly globe of the Travelers Aid, are the men in uniform. They lurch off trains, on which many of them have stood for hours, find the way to the U. S. O. lounges, tumble onto a bench or a cot, and are instantly asleep. "I didn't know," the girl told us, "that people of that general age could get so tired."

If a man in uniform sleeps too long, the volunteer is supposed to wake him to be sure he doesn't miss his train. The other day a sailor fell into a drugged sleep and after two hours the girl tried to awaken him, but he must have been unutterably tired, for she couldn't even make him open his eyes. She finally put one hand on his shoulder and said, "When does your train go?" and he mumbled, "Later." An hour later another sailor drifted in, and the girl asked his help. "I wish you could have seen the way that boy woke him up," she said. "He was as gentle as his mother would have been. First he talked to him. Then he put his feet on the floor. Then he lifted him in a slow, kind way." The boy's train left in half an hour.

Then there was the private, a man in his late 40s, who was asked whether he didn't want to see Chicago. "No, ma'am," he said with polite southern respect. "You know ma'am, ah'm just too tired." He was stationed in the state of Washington, and had a 15 day furlough, and had set out to visit his family in southern Mississippi. It took him six days to get there, he had two days at home, and now he was on his way back to camp. Yet an hour later, when the girl needed some one to help her carry some large boxes of stationery and asked the soldiers for five volunteers, he was the first to offer his help.

One day she noticed a sergeant scribbling at one of the desks. Later, after he was gone, she began to straighten the desk and found he had left a poem there. As poetry it was not much, but the thought was revealing:

A weary traveler writes these lines
 Wishing he were instead
With you—it would be so fine—
 Or else in a soft cool bed.

In bed he'd rest and dream,
 His weary body resting there,
His mind its thought would keep,
 Or dream of you, my dear.

He wrote this, and then apparently reconsidered. Where he had written "rest and dream," he substituted "sleep and sleep."

Soldiers and their wives or sweethearts miss each other with heartbreaking frequency. One day a young woman came to the desk. Her husband had wired that he would arrive at 3 a. m. She met the 3 a. m. train, and had been waiting futilely ever since. It was then 3 p. m. "You poor woman!" the worker said sympathetically. "Don't be nice to me," the girl said, her chin trembling, "or I'll cry." With that, she did. . . . A soldier who had been waiting for his wife since 7 a. m. came up at just about that time. "Lady," he said to the worker, "you have no idea what the wives of service men go thru."

At the lighted globe gather all who are in distress. Few go away uncomforted. They range from the marine who had lost his wallet containing $250, to the lady lecturer whose front tooth had fallen out on the train, to the soldier who wired: "Left two bottles liquor just inside U. S. O. lounge. Please hold." A cab driver found and returned the marine's wallet, intact; a dentist gave the lady lecturer a new tooth in her two hour stop here, and the two bottles are waiting the soldier's return.

OWI's POLISH SURVEY.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Please accept our thanks for the revelation of Red influences in OWI charged in new survey. It seems almost unbelievable that a government agency should employ in its offices persons of such bolshevistic tendencies.

On the other hand, a survey conducted here in Chicago by bolshevistic agents, supposedly employed by the OWI, can have little or no value. Signatures are secured from the most naive citizens and noncitizens of the United States. No real, big representative organizations were approached for signatures, only the most simple minds were asked for opinions on national and international problems, which in itself is ridiculous. Most of these surveys were conducted in sections where bolshevism is attempting to secure a foothold.

By what right can any one question the recognized government of Poland which has an army of 200,000, has a navy, which at present is larger than before the war; has 14,000 airmen who are doing such heroic work in daily attacks on axis countries?

It is significant that these same survey conductors do not question the governments of Holland, Denmark, Norway, or even the Czechs. It would be interesting to know why Poland's future is of such concern to these people who are not Poles.

PINBALL PAYOFF.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Police Commissioner Allman is entitled to praise for his stewardship. I refer to the suspension of seven Chicago police instructors who accepted "gifts" from the rookie policemen.

Now, Commissioner Allman can do the city of Chicago a real service by following up on this and suspending such of the law enforcement officers as are accepting payoff money from the pinball racketeers.

Today we find pinball games infiltrating restaurants, hamburger stands, drug stores, and taverns, etc., and those now left to play consist mostly of boys in their teens. Not only are games now flourishing boldly illegal, but the youth of our city is being corrupted and taught how to gamble while defense workers likewise spill their bond money into these hungry racketeers' gambling devices.

MAN POWER IN BOOKIE JOINTS.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Speaking of man power shortage, how about the thousands of men, both young and middle aged, employed in bookie joints in Cook county?

Every day new joints are opening and in some places as many as 15 men are employed. How can these men be exempt from being placed in essential war jobs? Probably some more votes for 1944, or is it the big "hush money" their proprietors pay to the higher-ups?

F. C. D.

ONE MORE LAW.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Since perpetual peace and universal prosperity are already provided for by our post-war planners, could they not turn their attentions to the matter of the mortality of our leaders? What a pity to contemplate that all these future dreams must vanish upon the demise of our great leaders, who will be irreplaceable. Why cannot congress pass a law decreeing immortality for them?

MARK TABER.

ATTACKS TRUCKERS' LOBBY.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—An editorial in THE TRIBUNE for Aug. 16 brings up the time worn theme of varying motor vehicle licensing regulations among the states, and apparently assumes that a breakdown of such regulations is an indication of progress. It asserts that "the action was taken to speed shipment of war materials." Is it not equally true to say that these actions were taken at the behest of the trucking lobbies, and that of the entire nation, only the truckers demanded tax exemption as their price of coöperation in the war effort?

Some four years ago you published the facts of the Illinois highway cost study, in which it was shown that the heavy trucker is the enemy of all other vehicles. May I suggest that instead of stirring up sympathy for highway transportation agencies, you bear in mind the description of those knights of the road by public utilities fortnightly:

"Those who deplore such [legal] conditions are simply serving as cat's paws for the transport truckers, who probably never will be satisfied until they may use all highways, roads, and streets in 48 states, the District of Columbia, and Alaska for one minimum yearly license fee."

E. F. DOWNS.

ELDERLY WAR MONGERS.

Harvey, Ill., Aug. 18.—The soldier who had been discharged on account of age has the opinion that the army should consist of young men only for the reason the older men cannot stand the training and would be of no value in combat. I think it would be well to send all the old men to the army. They as a rule are the ones who create wars. If the decision of war was left to the men below 30 years of age thruout the world there would be no wars. They fight and die in an attempt to correct the mistakes made by the older men.

INTEREST CHARGES.

Chicago, Aug. 12 [Legal Friend of the People].—Some time ago I had a charge account with a store. It was a monthly charge and payments due on the 10th of the following month. I bought merchandise one month and then lost my position. After being out of work for a year I started work again and began paying off. Several months ago a collection agency called me, insisting on immediate payment. I told them I would agree if I could pay $10 every two weeks. Now they have started suit.

1. Can they sue me? They accepted the reduced payments. No written agreement was made.
2. Can they charge me interest?
3. Are they charging 3% interest on the account.
4. How soon after judgment is awarded plaintiff must defendant pay?

J. E.

1. Yes.
2. Depends in part on the agreement.
3. If you mean 3% per year, this is low. If you mean 3% per month, this is more than they are permitted to charge unless they are licensed for the small loans business.
4. At once, in the sense that the judgment creditor can proceed by garnishment or levy of execution.

POLIO IN ARMY UNIT WILL DELAY INDIANA U. TERM

Five Cases Are Found Among Trainees.

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 22 (AP).—A one week postponement in the opening of the fall term for civilian students at Indiana university was announced tonight as a precaution after the disclosure that five army trainees on the campus have infantile paralysis.

President Herman B. Wells said the opening was delayed on the recommendation of Dr. Thurman B. Rice, state health commissioner.

All five cases of poliomyelitis developed in one army specialized training unit which arrived Wednesday. The entire unit has been under strict quarantine since its arrival.

Under the new schedule, registration for freshmen will begin Sept. 8 and for other civilian students Sept. 9, with classes starting Sept. 13. Dr. Wells said army and navy training programs are continuing except for the unit in quarantine.

Restrict Navy Men at Yale.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 22 (AP).—The New Haven Journal-Courier said tonight the liberty of more than 2,000 navy and marine corps trainees at Yale university had been restricted because of the infantile paralysis now prevalent in New Haven.

Navy officials at the university declined to comment on the report, but the paper said all week-end leaves had been canceled, and students had been ordered to stay within a four-mile radius of the center of the city and forbidden to attend theaters or visit beaches.

New Haven hospital reported two persons suspected of having infantile paralysis were admitted to the institution today and two were discharged, leaving the number of cases, known and suspected, at 87.

Seventy-one cases, of whch 69 are children, have been diagnosed definitely as infantile paralysis, the hospital said, and the other 16 are listed as probable. Since June there have been three deaths here and one in Bridgeport.

SIX CASES IN COUNTY.

Six new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Cook county outside Chicago yesterday by Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, director of the Cook county health unit. This raised the total of county cases to 79. All have occurred since early July. Four of the new cases were in Glenwood, and one each in Berwyn and Cicero. Sixteen cases were reported Saturday by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, bringing the city total since July 1 to 170.

DIES OF FALL INJURIES.

Mrs. Isabelle McAlpin, 79 years old, 2115 Monroe street, died in County hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Aug. 6, when she fell in her home.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

L. J. H. writes: "A few days ago I wrote to you for advice about how to make an appeal. You sent me your 'Steps in Making an Appeal' and suggested I talk with the appeal agent of the nearest local board, which I did, and all the help he would give me was to say he had orders not to give advice or assist any one from another board as to the manner of presenting the evidence. Does that mean I am to be denied legal advice just because I happen to be living here at present? When I went to the local board and asked for help, the girl clerk said the appeal agent would help me, but when I tried to pin her down she replied, 'Well, you can hardly expect appeal agents to give any help because they are not getting paid for it. Maybe you could engage a private lawyer.'"

ANSWER: It always has been our understanding that appeal agents would give freely of their advice and assistance whenever asked by registrants who were way from their own local boards. We have communicated with the director of selective service for Illinois and you probably will hear from him.

L. H. writes: "I read your response in the column about a man who married a woman who had a child by previous marriage. He was classified 1-A and you said he should be 3-A and quoted the regulations. Being in something of the same fix myself [married a woman in 1940 who had two children by a former marriage], I took the clipping to my board and he [the appeal agent] said we had a right to appeal the case on a 'technicality,' as he put it. About your clipping, he said he knew nothing about paragraph 5, section 622.33 and that the newspapers caused no end of trouble by quoting misunderstood regulations. Is there anything I can do now?"

ANSWER: Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, has indicated he would go all the way in protecting the rights of a registrant, and we have sent him a copy of your complaint. No doubt if your facts are as you have stated them, your case will be straightened out. Evidently your case is not a "technicality" but has been provided for in the section referred to in the previous column.

W. R. writes: "We have been married two years. I have two boys from a previous marriage who have been maintained in our home since my husband and I married. The board put my husband in 1-A and gave him a 90 day deferment. They claim he isn't a father at all. He is in essential work."

ANSWER: Paragraph 5, section 622.33 of the regulations entitles your husband to deferment as a father because he acquired his status prior to Dec. 8, 1941. If his appeal period [10 days] has gone by and the draft board refuses to take cognizance of his plea, have him write to Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, Springfield, Ill.

Dorothy Kitchell Engaged to Frederic T. Brandt Jr.

BY JUDITH CASS.

AT a tea on Saturday in their Evanston home, Mr. and Mrs. Howell W. Kitchell announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy, to Frederic Theodore Brandt Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Brandt of Aldine avenue. Miss Kitchell, a niece of the late Ring Lardner, was graduated last year from Connecticut College for Women. Her fiancé received his degree in 1941 from Princeton university, where he was a member of Tower club. He has completed two years of graduate work in the Yale law school and at present is stationed with the army at Camp Chaffee, Ark. The wedding will take place in the fall during his next furlough.

At Saturday's party Miss Kitchell's young friends had their first opportunity to see a portrait of her painted this summer by Nancy Reid, Evanston artist.

Engagements Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Flynn of Westport, Conn., formerly of Chicago, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elinor, to Lt. John Byrne Ross of the army quartermaster corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Ross of New York. Miss Flynn attended Mount Saint Mary academy in St. Charles, Manhattanville college and the Katharine Gibbs school. One of her brothers, Charles Peyton Flynn, still lives here. Lt. Ross was graduated from Georgetown university last January, and is stationed at Fort Crook, Neb.

Col. and Mrs. Edward Barbour Towns of New York announce the engagement of Mrs. Towns' daughter, Miss Carolyn Fairfax Robertson, to Lt. Patrick Francis Sammon Jr., of the army signal corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sammon of Oak Park. Lt. Sammon entered the army in 1940 as a member of the Black Horse Troop and is stationed on Governor's Island, N. Y.

Future Events.

In Hinsdale it means nothing these days to a little knot of workers to rise with the dawn and put in a stint of labor before the working day begins. Their gathering place is the grounds of the Theodore Mohlmans' home, where a committee consisting of Mr. Mohlman, L. F. Caufield, Carl G. Speidel, James J. Emmett, and Stanley Luke is hard at work building jumps for the Ginger Creek Horse show on Sept. 12. The task ahead of them is no small one, for the show will include an outside hunter and jumper course on turf, such as never has been employed in this area and which must be built to order.

The committee is providing all the manual work in connection with the show. Mrs. Mohlman and Mrs. Caufield are handling secretarial details, along with Mr. Mohlman's sister, Miss Betty Mohlman, here from New York to stay thru the show.

The Ginger Creek show is a welcome addition in horse show circles as it tops off a cycle including the Milwaukee, Crown Point, and Castle Park shows. Mrs. Ray Kelly will bring her mount, Rysco, from Racine, Wis., and Dennis Murphy, one of the last steeplechasers in Chicagoland, will bring several hunters from Milwaukee. Arthur Colina, who formerly was Roger Hyatt's breeder manager, will be judge.

The show will start at 1 p. m., and after the closing event at 6 p. m. the Caufields and Mohlmans will give a small party for the exhibitors. Special attention will be given to horsemanship for children.

Parking spaces, which are limited in number and will go to the first guests reserving them, will sell for $3.50. General admission is 55 cents. Any money left after expenses have been met will go to a war charity.

Weddings Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Joseph Burckart of Sheridan road announce the marriage on Aug. 2 of their daughter, Miss Joan Claire McMahon, to Ensign Ralph John Rosen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rosen of Lincoln Park West. The wedding took place in the Star of the Sea church in Virginia Beach, Va. Ensign Rosen is attached to the naval base at Pungo, Va.

Miss Annamae Leekes and Sgt. Joseph Strassburger, both formerly of Chicago, announce their marriage on Aug. 21 at the Wilshire Wedding chapel in Los Angeles. They will live in Los Angeles. The bride is a graduate of the University of Illinois and now is publicity chairman for women's activities of the Los Angeles Civilian Defense organization. Sgt. Strassburger was graduated from the University of Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Feder of Foster avenue announce the marriage on June 20 in the Sovereign hotel of their daughter, Lauretta, to Corp. Bernard Kritzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kritzer of West Jackson boulevard. Corp. Kritzer has taken his bride to Macon, Ga., where he is stationed with the army air forces.

Here and There.

Mrs. John P. McWilliams and her two little daughters, Priscilla and Susan, will be welcomed back to their home in Dwight on Wednesday, as Lt. [j. g.] McWilliams expects to receive new orders. They have been living near Norfolk, Va. Lt. McWilliams is bringing his family west, and after a short time in Dwight, he and Mrs. McWilliams will take the children to the Spring Lake, Mich., summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Morse, where the youngsters will remain while Mrs. McWilliams goes back east with her husband. The McWilliamses formerly lived in Lake Forest. Their new Dwight home was completed just before he entered the navy. Lt. McWilliam's brother, Lt. Alex McWilliams, is stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., where his wife is joining him following a visit with her mother at Rye Beach, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller have gone to Ogden, Utah, to spend several weeks with their son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Bruce Strong, and granddaughter, Cara. The Strongs have taken a house in Ogden while Capt. Strong is stationed at Hill field, and have been writing their friends about their beautiful garden and view of the mountains from their terrace.

Campers Give Annual Circus at Algonquin

Two hundred and seventy sun tanned campers at the United Charities' Camp Algonquin covered themselves with cheese cloth and grease paint yesterday to present the camp's annual circus. The show was preceded, in hallowed circus tradition, by a dinner that introduced watermelon and sweet corn for the first time on the camp menu this season. The boys said it was like Christmas. The girls just ate.

The "big top" was a grassy mound on the fringe of the Fox river, surrounded by a row of gay flags. Eleven side shows circled the ring, and 11 acts competed for the onlookers' applause. The only similarity in the side shows was in the enthusiasm shown by the hawking barkers. There were a number of "Little Egypts," but a six year old girl with white flowers twined in her dark hair stole the show.

There was a freak exhibit and the freaks this year were bigger and better than ever before. Grotesque representations of Hitler and Mussolini were frequent. A score of fortune tellers peddled the future, but a girl of 11 who converted a fish bowl into a crystal had the greatest success. She explained this by saying that she saw only good things, such as more ice cream, longer vacations, and presents for everybody. Clowns, of course, were plentiful.

The ring acts included a bull fight and an exhibition of juggling. When a juggler missed, his error provoked a greater round of applause than his successful performances.

The mothers, too, had a part in the show. They formed a kitchen band that made music with pots and pans.

These 270 children who presented the program will close the camping season at Algonquin on Aug. 31. Including this group, 1,500 needy boys and girls will have received free vacations at the camp this summer. Money for their care was provided by readers of THE TRIBUNE. With the closing of the camping season, the drive to collect money for next year's vacations gets under way. Contributions should be sent to The Tribune Charities, Inc.

Critic Finds Grant Park's Acoustics Sadly Wanting

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Grant park opened its final week of free concerts last night when an audience estimated at more than 15,000 heard a symphony orchestra under the direction of Jerzy Bojanowski, with Valerie Glowacki as soloist. Miss Glowacki is a lyric soprano who has made numerous appearances in Polish opera under Mr. Bojanowski's direction. Her voice is light in quality and agreeable in timber, tho not, even with the aid of a microphone, equal to the demands of an aria from "Aida." A far more fortunate choice was the Laughing Song from Strauss' "The Bat," while her natural simplicity of style was effective in Malotte's setting of "The Lord's Prayer," despite an accompaniment so slow it taxed her breath control.

Mr. Bojanowski was represented by one of his own songs, a pleasant prelude with words I was unable to understand, owing, in part, no doubt, to an experiment I was conducting in acoustics. Instead of sitting in the middle of row one, where the management courteously places reviewers, I was trying to hear what reaches the average listener. It isn't always good.

For instance, I heard the first half of the concert from the left side of the first row, where Rossini's Overture to "Semiramide" had a crisp enough outline without much clarity of detail, and Alfven's "Swedish Rhapsody" was little more than a confusing welter of sound. I was willing to blame most of this on faulty acoustics, but surely only Mr. Bojanowski was to blame for what happened when he tried to blend Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" music, so that the Ride of the Witch, that saga of Rosina Daintymouth astride a broomstick, was tangled up with the dream pantomime. I wandered outside to hear Strauss' "Don Juan" over the amplification; it sounded vague and far away, and curious as music must sound when the triangle makes more noise than the whole string section. Next summer, how about better listening for every one?

Children's Civic Theater to Present 'Little Women'

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Here is a delectable show!

Even the villain [Billy de Wolfe] —with his coat tails flying and his false smile flashing—is a charmer. Add him to the irresistible Bing, a lovely tempest and sunshine combination of leading ladies, a grand supporting cast featuring Raymond Walburn and the late Lynne Overman, plus technicolor, plus a story and songs that click—and you have the sort of sunrise a war film weary world has been waiting for!

Mebbe—mebbe not—the song "Dixie" and ye good old minstrel show were born the way the yarn says. Who cares when events built on the supposition are filled with beauty, music, laughter, pathos, hokum in its most endearing form? Not I!

Time is the 1850s. Dan Emmett, in love with Jean Mason, small town girl, leaves his pipe on her hall table while they romance by the river—and the house burns down. . . . Jean's papa says avaunt and come hither no more. . . . Dan agrees to avaunt but, sezze, in six months he will be back with his $500 nest egg doubled and marry the girl. . . . Long has he wanted to change from feed store clerk into a composer. NOW he has his chance. . . .

He takes a river boat. . . Sh-h-h! . . . On the boat is a gay gambler who is also an actor out of work. . . . SOOn the $500 has changed owners. BUT—after the gay dog has decamped Dan finds five aces in his vacated chair—and Dan, in his own little way is plenty smart.

He tracks down Mr. Bones to a New Orleans theatrical boarding house presided over by Millie Cook. Here he gathers the reins into capable hands and, eventually, "Dixie" and a minstrel show make their bows. [The plot will remind you of mules you may have known. It takes a fire to get them a-goin'.]

Whom does the artist marry? Mustn't tell you. Gentle Jean and fiery Millie both love him very much and both—well—never mind! But be sure to take a handkerchief along.

You'll love the blackface sequences. [The present generation, poor lambs, have likely never seen a real minstrel show!] You'll love the gorgeous costumes in gorgeous color, the story's droll and unexpected turns, the pat dialog and the completely satisfying finale.

You'll love "Dixie"!

See You Soon.

SYNOPSIS: After the siege of Dunkirk, Ronnie Banks rifles the person of a lifeless figure. On his arrival in London he evades his comrades, examines the stolen note cases, finds money, a card with an intriguing address, and letters, and immediately takes possession of Alan Conyers' flat and identity. He engages in a romance with a wealthy Argentine widow, Maria de Santos, who lives next door. On a visit to his mother, who adores him, he learns of the death of his son. Maria suggests an early marriage and life in Argentina. The military police are searching for the deserter. Ronnie's wife, Goldie, goes to see his mother and realizes Ronnie has been to see her. June Merrill, Alan Conyers' English cousin, calls to make the acquaintance of her American cousin and invites him for a week-end. Ronnie is captivated by her. Maria surprises them and makes a jealous scene, which convinces Ronnie life with her would be too trying. Ronnie has an unexpected encounter with his lance corporal but proves he is Alan Conyers. He then withdraws Conyers' money from the bank and spends the week-end at Merrills', courting June.

INSTALMENT XIII.
A LOAN.

June said hastily, not wishing to hurt Ronnie's feelings, "You seem to forget that my country is at war. I couldn't just run away to some pleasant, far off spot and pretend to forget it all. It's different with you, of course. You're not British."

Such a speech should have stung Ronnie Banks, but in his role of Alan Conyers, he had no difficulty in agreeing with her that he was not actually British.

"Forget it," he said, as he had advised the lance corporal this morning. "Come on, be a pal, and shake hands."

On second thought, he kissed the hand she offered him. It was the first time in his life he had ever done such a thing, and his eyes smarted with sudden moisture as he pressed his lips to those slender young fingers.

But he would get her, he told himself; in the long run and by hook or crook, if necessary.

June let him take her hand again, as they walked slowly up the path to Priory cottage on their return. It seemed a little thing to do, in all kindness, for "Cousin Alan" had been silent and a little downcast on the way back. June was glad that she would have to excuse herself almost immediately to prepare supper.

"Is that you?" shrilled the old man's voice as they entered the house.

"O, dear, he's still cross," she said in an aside to Ronnie. 'Do come and cheer him up, Alan."

It turned out, however, that old John Merrill had quite forgiven their desertion, and the urgency in his voice had nothing to do with them at all.

A clerkly little man, balancing a bowler hat on his knees and mopping his brow with a gay colored handkerchief, was seated stiffly opposite June's father, giving a good impression of one who feverently wished himself dead.

"O . . . Mr. Meakers," said June, her voice falling.

"Meakers says he can't meet that note," said Mr. Merrill, coming bluntly to the point. "He's here to warn me that it'll fall on me, come Tuesday. Not that I'm blaming you, Meakers. I know the worry you've had and all, but where am I to find £50? I grant I had it, when I consented to back your note, but I haven't got it now."

"I—I"m sorry, sir," he mumbled. "If my wife hadn't been taken ill, sir, this wouldn't have happened. I just don't know what to do. Now that I've found a new berth, sir . . . if only I could tide matters over a bit."

Mr. Merrill groaned and looked at the ceiling.

"Is there anything left of value we could sell, June?" he asked. "You know what a paltry price we got for——"

"I'll have a look around," June said hastily, her face flushing crimson.

But now it was the turn of the rich cousin from America who, so far ignored, had grasped the situation and determined to make use of it, even if it did cost him £50. After all, it might be cheap at the price.

"Allow me, Cousin Jack," he said, flourishing his bursting wallet. "In any case, it was my intention to buy a few little gifts for you and June, but I'm sure, in the circumstances, you'd like to have it this way."

He held up his hand to stay their protests.

• • •

Old John Merrill had no scruples whatsoever in accepting this generous offer, and the real culprit, poor Meakers, had very few. Given time, he would repay what he insisted was a loan and wanted to make a note, there and then, of his benefactor's name and address.

Ronnie had to remind him—and incidentally remind Mr. Merrill and June—that the loan, if such it was, had been on behalf of his, Mr. Meaker's, late employer. John Merrill, and not the unfortunate clerk, had become the ultimate debtor.

Mr. Merrill was loudly and joyously proclaiming the load this happy conclusion to a painful affair had taken off his mind.

What a boy old Tom's son was! How just like his father, always ready with a helping hand, by which Ronnie astutely guessed that this was not the first time Conyers' money had helped the old bookseller.

June fled to the kitchen, where Ronnie soon made bold to follow her. He found her weeping, which suited him quite nicely.

How could she possibly repulse him now, when he took her into his arms; when, indeed, he kissed her?

He'd got her into more than his arms; he'd regularly got her into a cleft stick, and she surprised herself very much by the discovery that she came near to hating him.

However it was, June Merrill rightly or wrongly, looked upon herself as a woman who had been bought for the ridiculous price of £50.

She was worth much more than that, in her own opinion; in fact, she was worth so much that there was not enough money in the whole wide world to buy her.

• • •

Mr. Merrill said there must be a bottle of port left, somewhere. Would June have a look? They must celebrate.

Yes, there was, and she brought it in.

Ronnie hated port, altho this was quite good stuff, but he drank his share out of politeness. June waited on them at table, moving about, pale and silent. Ronnie was used to be waited on by Mum—yes, and even by Goldie in her gracious moods—so he thought nothing much of it. June would make a good wife in a practical way, too, he told himself.

Mr. Merrill said they must have "the woman" in to wash up, tho, and after listening to the rather disheartening news on the wireless, he graciously suggested that it might be pleasant if Alan took June to the pictures.

June went to the pictures with the young man, whose wealth had seemingly enslaved her, and dutifully made herself an agreeable companion. Ronnie, suddenly tactful, was on his good behavior. He took expensive seats and bought her a box of chocolates, but decided to attempt no familiarities. He might be in a hurry to renew his love-making, but he knew where to call a halt.

In fact, he was so pleasant and amusing, that before the evening was over, June began to wonder if it were really her bounden duty to hate him because he had generously got her father out of a tight corner.

Wasn't she being rather morbid and silly about it?

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 22.—Ida Lupino, after a much needed rest, will star in "The House of Chetworth," for 20th Century. It's a story by Hugh Walpole, highly dramatic. It was R. C. Sheriff's last script before pushing off to England. Ida is mighty glad it won't start until November. . . . Katharine Hepburn, now that she's back east, is being talked about for three pictures—"Dragon Seed," "Drivin' Woman," and of course, "Without Love." And glory be! They've finally got a swell script out of that one by Samuel Raphaelson. . . . You've heard of producers going way downtown to meet an important player, but Everett Riskin made the journey to meet a couple of camels from the St. Louis zoo which complete his camel caravan of nine for "Kismet." He's had a time finding them. Before the war, when Hollywood needed extra animals, as for Tarzan pictures, technicians made them of rubber. Metro has a whole herd of rubber elephants. But gosh! You can't get enough rubber these days for a girdle.

Overbalanced.

Michele Morgan is sorry she went into "Higher and Higher" on account of all the publicity given Frank Sinatra. After all, Morgan and Jack Haley will have to carry the thing. . . . Think nothing of it when you see Veronica Lake about town with Freddie Wilcox. Freddie really discovered her. He got her the job in "Forty Little Mothers" and introduced her to John Detlie, to whom she is married. . . . Anne Shirley is mighty cagey about her new romance. He recently returned to New York. . . . Gracie Fields took Adamson's new song, "The Wings of England," to London with her. Gracie will sing it for the king and queen. . . . Walter Wanger has Joan Leslie's sister, Betty Brodel, for one of the girls in "When Ladies Fly." . . . The howling one hears around Santa Monica canyon nightly must be coming from the Hollywood wolves. Laraine Day plunges into her swimming pool in the raw.

Making Hay.

Mary Pickford and David Selznick hope to buy Alex Korda's interest in United Artists before he returns to London. Alex tells me plans are all set for Orson Welles to do "War and Peace" over there. Merle returns with him to do an original story with Robert Donat. Korda saw Clark Gable the day he left England. He says he never saw Gable look so fit. . . . Olivia de Havilland and Joan Fontaine aren't the only ambitious women in their family. Their mother is learning radio technique from an expert teacher.

Not Too Old.

Dame May Whitty has gone redheaded in "Gaslight," I watched her do a scene with Ingrid Bergman in an English railway carriage, with Director George Cukor, as usual, giving it the business. At least, Dame May had the business and all the lines, while serving tea, putting jam on crackers, and opening a lunch basket. The conversation was mighty appetizing—all about a murder that had taken place ten years before. She got such a zest for it in her voice you could almost see it taking place. . . . Went back to Ingrid's dressing room and found a huge bowl of white flowers—a gift from her producer, Arthur Hornblow. It's a nice custom of Arthur's. He never fails.

Never Know.

Not having seen Irene Dunne for ages, I went all the way to the back lot to have a chin with her. There she was with Clarence Brown and a cameraman, five flights up on a platform overlooking all of Culver City and shooting down onto a grandstand with people milling about. From that distance they must have looked like matches. I love Irene, but what with the heat and all, I waved feebly and thru a megaphone yelled, "Let me know when you're off 'The White Cliffs'—so we can find a shady lane and just flop." . . . Adrian's fall opening was so packed a thin shad couldn't have slithered in sideways. With the shortage of material, Adrian has gone in for elegance in trimmings, unusual drapery, and superb blending of colors. If the oh's and ah's from the women are any indication, they are going to stop wearing sackcloth and ashes and burst forth looking like birds of paradise.

Homemakers were perturbed a month or two ago about a temporary potato "famine," which was particularly acute in the east. Now the new crops of potatoes are rolling to market in quantity.

A potato a day is nutritionally advisable for each of us. This vegetable contains appreciable amounts of vitamin C and thiamin as well as minerals. In England it has become an extremely important food, for the English diet is limited to a small fraction of the variety which we have, and the potato is depended upon for vitamin C. We get our C in tomatoes and oranges, and to us the potato is more important for its minerals.

In order to conserve food nutrients, potatoes should be boiled, steamed or baked in the skin as often as possible. You won't always want to serve them in the skin, of course, so sometimes, for variety's sake, you'll pare them before cooking. Even if they've been pared, it's a good idea to cook them whole, for cut surfaces further the vitamin and mineral loss.

If you've been making dill pickles and have dill to spare, cook some of it with the potatoes, or sprinkle chopped dill over boiled, seasoned potatoes when they are ready for the table. The flavor is different, and very good.

Here's another delightful way to serve whole, steamed or boiled new potatoes: Cook them in their skins. Melt a little margarine in a saucepan, add salt, paprika and chopped chives. Roll the hot potatoes in this seasoning before serving.

There are those who say that the potato never should be boiled except with caraway seeds. Caraway is a pleasant seasoner for "spuds." It may be used with or without the addition of onions.

Try boiling potatoes in bouillon or in water seasoned with meat extract, for a change. In this instance you would pare the potatoes first.

A simple way to treat steamed or boiled potatoes is to strip off the peeling when they have cooked and brown them in margarine or oil. Salt, pepper, and grated cheese then may be added. Cheese may be omitted and minced parsley used to give color and flavor.

Watercress may be chopped and used with potatoes. Watercress isn't "in season" right now, but that's a thought for cooler weather when we again find bunches of this crisp and sharp flavored gourmet's delight in our vegetable markets.

With the use of a little imagination, potatoes never need seem a dull dish. They can be one of the most interesting parts of a meal.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

Miss Irma Brunke (left) and Mrs. Dorothy Evans, members of the Civil Air Patrol, who assist at army air force cadet booth in the tent of The Tribune's air power show.

Women members of the Civil Air Patrol are assisting the army aviation cadet examining board by answering queries and giving information to prospective army flyers who stop at the board's booth in the tent at the air power show in Tribune Square. The booth has been set up as a feature of the show with the coöperation of both the army air forces and THE TRIBUNE.

"Manning" the booth yesterday were 2d Lt. Dorothy Evans, wife of Lt. Col. P. Wilson Evans of the army engineering corps, now stationed in Central America, and Miss Irma Brunke, C. A. P. trainee at Sky Haven airport, in Franklin Park.

Mrs. Evans, the mother of three children, has 230 flying hours to her credit and now is training for a commercial pilot's license. Miss Brunke is employed in the engineering department of the Stewart-Warner corporation, which is filling war contracts.

Maj. Charles W. H. Schuck, commander of the Illinois wing of the C. A. P., said yesterday that the organization in this state now has 3,500 members, 15 per cent of whom are women. Since April the C. A. P. has been an auxiliary of the army air forces.

The army air forces cadet examining board has headquarters in room A-714, 166 West Van Buren street. President of the board is Capt. Francis A. Wilgus.

The first woman to complete signal corps pre-radar study at the Illinois Institute of Technology is 18 year old Delpha Catherine Jacobsen of Walnut, Ia. More than 3,000 men have been trained in this field since the school's signal corps training program was established in June, 1942.

Miss Jacobsen's entrance into the signal corps occurred quite by accident. She was secretary to her father, Dell C. Jacobsen, postmaster at Walnut, when a signal corps bulletin arrived. She immediately enlisted as a civil service employe and in October began a four months' mechanics "learner" course at Technical High school in Omaha, Neb.

Completing that course, she became a junior repairman trainee at West High school in Des Moines, Ia., and entered pre-radar training at Illinois Tech last May. Thru her studies of radio theory and mathematics she now is on her way to the study of radar, new detection instrument used against planes and submarines.

Miss Jacobsen will be assigned next to the study of transmitters and receivers. Upon completion of that training she will receive her orders to replace a man in signal corps work. After the war she hopes to return to school and work toward a career in either aviation or surgery.

Young women interested in this new type of war work should make application at the war training for women office at Illinois Tech, 1951 Madison street.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

A Set of Drum Accessories Is Sought by Sally

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A young man, 21 years old, who is almost blind, has asked our assistance in obtaining drum accessories. A set of drums was given to him, and he would like very much to have tom-toms, cymbals, wooden blocks, or other similar items to complete the set. He is greatly interested in music and is quite talented, but he is unable to obtain these items. We will be glad to provide further details to any interested reader.

If any reader has an electric iron which she no longer uses, we would be glad to place it with a young soldier, who finds it difficult to pay for pressing bills, since he has family responsibilities.

If any south side reader has rugs which are no longer needed, Mrs. D. would be happy to have them. She is the mother of seven children. They are unable to buy all of the articles necessary for the home on her husband's small salary. The rugs which they are now using are threadbare.

Mrs. M. on the south side, is in need of bedroom and living room furniture. She has one small child and is expecting another. She finds it imperative that she move from the unsuitable furnished room in which she now lives, but cannot purchase necessary furniture.

Crocheted Wedge Sandals

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted wedge sandals created of a combination of cotton scraps and rug wool are the latest. This inexpensive type of play shoe is fun to make and decidedly colorful! They may be made to match various robes and house coats.

For instructions in crocheting the wedge sandals, No. 859, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Smartest Bags Are Now Made of Broadcloth

BY REA SEEGER.

The smart new handbags illustrate handsomely what resourceful bag makers can do without leather. Soot black 100 per cent all wool broadcloth, the kind that shimmers in the light, and swanky frames and clasps of simulated tortoise shell plastic are used to achieve a high fashion pouch bag that is the last word in sophistication.

The broadcloth has been shirred generously to the frames and three sizes are offered—a rather small, neat model, a medium sized one, and an extra large model to hold all the extras. The simulated tortoise shell plastic frame and clasp combination is exceptionally dramatic with the black fabric. Such bags are ideal to accompany black costumes contrasted with brown or all brown suits and dresses.

Also here and ready for the rush are the now famous collarbag handbags. Designed by Hattie Carnegie and presented with her first fall and winter collections, these bags stole the spotlight. The originals were covered in virtually every known material—wool, satin, faille, silk, and fur. They are saucy numbers, the exact size and shape of grandaddy's pet collar box.

There are festive green satin models and smart dull blacks in faille and grosgrain ribbon, as well as many others. They may swing from the arm by a narrow band of the same material as the cover. Inside are a mirror, coin purse, slits, and compartments, plus plenty of room for extras.

They're the newest, smartest bags in town and will dramatize your first fall costume, whether suit or dress. You'll never miss the leather bags of former years, if one of these models holds your shopping money.

Matrix Club Will Dine and Have Movie Party

Members of the Matrix club, an organization of professional women writers, with headquarters at 75 East Wacker drive, will assemble at 5:45 this evening for a dinner and movie party, the club's social event for August. Miss Bess Dobson has made the arrangements.

Thru the Looking Glass

In some experiments we and our ever willing guinea pigs did lately we all came to the conclusion that a bottle of inexpensive body lotion contributed more to the success of leg makeup than any other item.

The contribution was an indirect one, but important. The lotion is a skin smoother, and a good one, and it seems to us that if more women used something like this to make the skin of their legs not only presentable but downright satiny in texture they could wear leg makeup with far less self-consciousness.

Older women, in particular, feel that the skin of their legs just isn't good looking enough to be exposed via the thin film of a cosmetic. And sometimes it's true. But that horny skin—and it's not a condition on which the mature women have a priority—can be subdued.

This lotion helps. It was brought out some time ago as an emollient for the body skin that becomes unbearably dry and scaly. It's plenty efficient, too. Because it is so inexpensive it can be used generously. And it's not greasy. We have used it for some time as an elbow smoother.

Used nightly on the skin of the legs it helps that skin to become satin smooth. The superficial redness caused by a dry, taut surface will disappear, too. After a week of its consistent use the skin is smooth as silk and takes makeup beautifully. The little bumps and blotches that make skin look old and coarse will have disappeared, and that dry, too shiny look will have vanished.

Leg makeup, like face makeup, can be successful only when the skin surface to which it is applied is healthy and smooth. A softening preparation is a must for most women.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

The best advice I can give to habitual overbidders is to study the squeeze play in all its ramifications. There is no substitute for this ingenious device, by means of which two tricks may be made to bloom where only one was originally planted. For example:

East, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ J 9 6
♥ K 10
♦ K Q 6 2
♣ A 10 5 3

WEST
♠ 8 5 4
♥ 8 7 5 4 3 2
♦ 4 3
♣ 7 6

EAST
♥ Q J 9
♦ A J 10 9 7

SOUTH
♠ A K Q 10 7 3 2
♥ A 6
♦ 8 5
♣ 9 4

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 diamond	2 spades	Pass	3 no trump
4 clubs	4 spades	Pass	6 spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

Altho North-South reached a contract that was a trick too high for comfort, neither player can be said to have stretched his values more than a shade. North's final slam bid was optimistic, but he certainly had a good hand in the light of South's original jump overcall. East, of course, had his neck out when he bid four clubs, but since he was not vulnerable, and since he intended this call as a tentative "save" against the impending spade contract, his bidding was far from illogical.

West opened his top diamond. Dummy's queen went to the ace, and in the forlorn and solitary hope that West could ruff a second diamond, East returned the jack. West was unable to oblige and the king won. Things looked anything but rosy for the declarer—what could he do with his losing club?—but after a moment's thought, he saw a gleam of hope. He rattled off six rounds of trumps, discarding three clubs from dummy, then cashed the heart ace and the heart king. East, meanwhile, was running into discarding difficulties. When the second heart was led, dummy was reduced to the 6-2 of diamonds and the ace of clubs, while declarer still had one trump and the 9-4 of clubs. Before playing on the heart king, East held the 10-9 of diamonds and the K-Q of clubs. No matter what card he let go, he was doomed! Actually, he chose to throw off a diamond. Thereupon declarer ruffed the diamond deuce, incidentally ruffing away East's 10, and returned to the club ace, then cashed the diamond 6 for the fulfilling trick. If East had held two diamonds and discarded the club queen, declarer would have cashed the club ace immediately, then ruffed a diamond to enter his own hand and would have laid down the club 9 for the fulfilling trick.

If West had been a better guesser and had opened a club instead of a diamond, the squeeze would have been wrecked and the contract ditto. After the diamond lead, however, East was inexorably hooked.

Watch Cross Child Closely; He May Be Ill

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Your 5 year old, usually as sunny as a June day, is fussy and irritable; nothing suits him.

Your 10 year old has been so inactive for several days that you begin to think he's getting lazy, especially when he complains that his legs ache from running so many errands yesterday when you were cleaning the house.

Does it ever occur to you that they may be coming down with something?

Altho many of us don't realize it, children, being only human, have their ups and downs, too, their "off" days as well as their "on" days. Even cars and machines run better sometimes than others. But we who are parents are apt to expect our children to be absolutely even in their feelings, moods, reactions.

They can't be. Of course a healthy child is usually sweet and sunny, but there are times when, for reasons we can't always discern, he may be fretful, irritable or cry easily. The cause may be physical; it may be psychological, but we mustn't take it too hard if it's only a rare occurrence.

However, this is a fact: Often what seems like ill-temper or laziness is the forerunner of a cold or some other illness. Children, especially small ones, are not as conscious of low physical tone as grownups are.

We, for instance, have had enough experience with bodily sensations to recognize certain ones as nature's warning that we are perhaps overdoing, eating unwisely or sleeping too little. And so we do something about it.

Not so with children. The onset of an illness is nothing they notice or would know how to interpret if they did. So all we usually see is the result in their behavior. The experienced mother looks keenly at the child who, usually serene or at least averagedly good-tempered and contented, acts up.

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Edna B., Milwaukee, Wis.—For some years I've found it was a good idea to save pieces of heavy cellophane and use them to wrap around the corks of thermos bottles. With this protection the cork will stay sweeter and cleaner and won't absorb bottle odors.

Miss Ruth S. Henderson, West La Fayette, Ind.—Many people use a rag rug before the kitchen sink in order to help keep floor clean. I have found that to starch such a rug after washing is a great benefit. Starching causes the rug to lie closer to floor and not to ruffle so easily and it also will stay clean longer.

Mrs. Grace S., Chicago—It would be a help to those of us who use hand-me-down or borrowed baby buggies, if they were made with adjustable handles, to fit young mothers of varying heights.

Now—please—your—idea!

SAM BYRD'S 277 WINS VICTORY OPEN GOLF TITLE

CRAIG WOOD IS 2D TO FORMER YANK WITH 282

Two Service Men Tie for Third.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Samuel Dewey Byrd, the baseball player turned golfer, yesterday hit his first home run in the fairway big league by winning the Chicago Victory National Open championship with a 72 hole score of 277, seven under par for Beverly Country club and five strokes in front of the smartest field ever to come to Chicago. The 35 year old Georgia native, who once roamed the New York Yankee outfield, thus brought off what can be called a double header triumph, for on Thursday he had collaborated with Bob Cochran of St. Louis in winning the Chicago Victory National Pro-Amateur crown.

Yesterday's victory, which became almost anti-climactic after he had gone into a five stroke lead thru 63 holes, brought him a $1,000 maturity value war bond and a diamond studded gold medal.

Byrd, who turned pro at the age of 29, is the teaching professional at the swank Merion Cricket club in Philadelphia, but has been a regular member of the tournament troupe almost since he broke into golf. Prior to yesterday's convincing triumph, Sam had scored only once, winning the 1942 Greensboro, N. C. Open.

Wood Takes Second.

In second place last night was Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., last pre-war winner of the U. S. G. A. Open title. The 41 year old New Yorker made a mild move in the morning's third round, scoring 70 while Byrd was staggering a bit with a 72. Craig began his final 18 with a bogey, however, and finished with a 73 for a 282.

Next in line were two of the five service men competing in the tournament, which was sponsored by the Chicago District Golf association, the Professional Golfers' Association of America, and the Cook County Council of the American Legion, with net proceeds going to the wounded veterans of World War II from this area. In event any uniformed competitor won the title, 20 per cent of the net was to have gone to the player's post recreation fund. Sgt. Jim Turnesa of New York's Halloran General hospital and Pvt. Chick Harbert of Camp Grant, Ill., fought a good fight for their buddies, for, playing together, they finished with 283's.

Nelson Shoots 284.

Alone at the 72 hole par of 284 was the man regarded by his rivals as the modern master of them all—John Byron Nelson of Toledo, O. Yesterday morning he compounded one of the weirdest cards of his career, a 72 that included seven birdies. Those should have led to a 64, but they were smudged by, an eight at the 590 yard 11th. Yes, an eight, born of his only bad drive of the round, and a game of tag with the trees on the left. Nelson added another 72 in the afternoon for his final round.

Byrd's victory produced the widest margin in a major championship since 1938, when Ralph Guldahl ran off with the U. S. G. A. Open title by six strokes in Denver. Sam'l found the going a bit tight, after the morning round, out of which he emerged with a three-quarters total of 207, with Wood's 209 pressing him, and Turnesa and Harbert, each with 211, and Nelson's 212 within hailing distance.

Last to tee off in the afternoon, Byrd rushed thru the front nine in 39, and by the time he had passed the 63d he was looking over his shoulder. For those 63, he had a total of 241 shots, five less than Wood, with Turnesa trailing at 247, Harbert at 248, and Nelson at 250.

Hammers for Birdies.

From there on, Sam was hammering for birdies thru five holes, but the best he could get out of the final nine was a 36 and a 70, against his other three rounds of 68, 67, and 72. A burst of three birdies on the sixth, seventh and eighth holes proved to Tribute.

Not all of the valiant march along
When the bands begin to play,
Many must stand in the wayside throng
And cheer them on their way.

Not all who are heroes receive the award
Of the cross or the purple heart;
Some stay behind to work unknown
And quietly do their part.

Unhonored, unsung, they plod along
In the jobs that must be done
To keep the wheels in motion
For the mind behind the gun.

WHITE SOX WIN PAIR FROM A'S, 5 TO 2 AND 3 TO 2

Philadelphia Drops 16th, 17th in Row.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The usually charitable White Sox showed no concern yesterday over the sad state of affairs in the headquarters of Connie Mack's Athletics. They took their guests down the line by 5 to 2 in the front portion of a double header and then repeated the dose, 3 to 2, on Tony Cuccinello's ninth inning homer to extend the eighth placers' losing streak to 17 games, the longest in the league since 1937 when another edition of Mackmen as well as Boston's Red Sox, piled up 15 without a break.

Trusting that a long shot might get his befuddled troops headed in a different direction, the venerable Mack ushered one Jim Mains, a recent import from the Utica, N. Y., club, to the mound in the first battle, but the young man didn't have the kind of tricks needed to keep the James Dykes' gang under control. They amused 11,620 patrons by clipping the fellow in the pinches, the run production proving ample for the purposes of Eddie Smith who recorded his eighth victory altho he didn't finish. Fireman Gordon Maltzberger took over in the ninth when the little round southpaw gave signs of weariness.

Tony Sends Customers Home.

Cuccinello not only applied the satisfactory finishing touch to the second game but also served ably in the first inning by doubling to account for one of two runs that kept Johnny Humphries ahead of Jesse Flores until a tie occurred in the seventh. Then, just after Humphries had accomplished the last of a series of escapes from a severe bruising, Cuccinello stepped up in the ninth to see what could be done about letting the customers go home. Tony looked at one wide pitch but Flores aimed the next one right thru the middle and Tony sent it on its way into the left field seats. It was Tony's second home run since joining the Sox.

The Sox began operations against Mains in the first game with a two run third inning, the productive ingredients being a double by Tom Turner, a triple by Wally Moses, and Hodgin's long fly. Singles by Jo Jo White and Jim Ripple enabled the Athletics to assess Smitty for a run in the fourth and the 2 to 1 count wasn't changed until the sixth when Hodgin doubled, Guy Curtright and Luke Appling singled and Mains balked for two runs. Smitty in person scored the last Sox run by walking in the seventh and covering the remainder of the route in infield hits by Hodgin and Curtright and Appling's fly. Singles by Bill Swift and White were the important items in the run registered by the Macks in the eighth.

Moses Steals No. 38.

Appling's bad throw, Ripple's single, and a fly ball let the Macks start off with a run in the second game, but their pleasure was short lived. Moses opened the Sox first inning with a walk and stole his No. 38 but was picked off third after Curtright had walked. Thus the Sox scored only two runs instead of three on a single by Appling and Cuccinello's double. Despite the abandon with which the enemy was hitting line drives, Humphries maintained his one run edge until Pete Suder tripled and Irvin Hall singled in the seventh.

Cubs Whip Giants, 6-2, 4-3; Nicholson Hits 20th Homer

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Bill Nicholson's three run homer in the first inning of the first game of the Cubs' double header with the Giants this afternoon made it a comparatively easy matter for Claude Passeau to register his 13th victory, 6 to 2. But the second game was much more feverish before Henry Wyse was credited with his seventh victory, 4 to 3.

The double triumph gave the Cubs an even break of 8-8 with the Giants in the season series, an edge of 9-7 on this trip, which started with their losing four out of five in Boston, and kept them apace with the Dodgers whom they are trying to overtake for fourth place. The Cubs will play an exhibition game in Camp Shanks tomorrow and Tuesday will clean up their affairs in the east in another double header with the Giants.

Nicholson Comes Thru.

Nicholson's homer in the first game was his 20th and the three runs it drove home lifted his runs-batted-in total to 95, within three of the greatest total he ever produced in a full season. He has 39 games in which to bat in four more for a new personal record.

Johnny Wittig, tho he had lost seven straight, started the first game by walking Stanky, after which singles by Hack and Cavarretta produced the first run of the afternoon. Nicholson then smashed his homer to score behind Hack and Cavarretta. In the absence of Manager Mel Ott, who is sick abed, the Giant coaches sent Wittig to the bathhouse and called in Rube Fischer who pitched eight scoreless innings, giving way to Pinch Hitter Gus Mancuso in the eighth. Gus delivered a homer and Ace Adams finished on the mound for the Giants. Off him the Cubs scored two runs in the ninth.

The Cubs scored in each of the first three innings of the second game, and then in the eighth, they counted again when Dallessandro busted a 455 foot triple with one down and scored on Merullo's single to center, Lennie's fifth hit of the afternoon in celebration of his return to the starting lineup.

Wyse Weakens in Eighth.

Wyse was on his way to a three hitter as he breezed thru the first two outs in the eighth. He had not yielded a hit nor a pass since the second inning. A pinch single by Ernesto Lombardi, a single by Dick Bartell, playing in his 2,001st game, and a double by Mickey Witek scored a run, cut the Cubs' edge to 4 to 2, and drove Wyse to the bathhouse.

Johnny Burrows took over to pitch to Johnny Rucker and a freak single scored the Giants' third run and had the tying run on third. Eddie Hanyzewski went in and retired Medwick, but the trouble wasn't over. In the ninth an error by Len Merullo and a single by Bill Jurges had the tying run on third and the winning run on first. Hi Bithorn then went in and retired Pinch Batter Ray Berres to end the game.

Young Ties Record to Win A.A.U. 100 Yard Event

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 22 (AP).—Claude Young of Wendell Phillips High school, Chicago, and running under the colors of the Old Timers' A. C., Chicago, captured the final of the 100 yard dash of the Niagara A. A. U. district in the annual Uniformed Firemen's association track and field meet today. Young won the event in :9.6, tying the mark established by Herbert Thompson four years ago.

All-Stars Get 1st Reprieve from Drills

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The College All-Stars received a well earned reprieve from their daily football labors yesterday after 15 days' double time practice for the battle with the Washington Redskins Wednesday night in Dyche stadium. But the furlough merely canceled the physical portion of the collegians' efforts.

"The problem now confronting us," Head Coach Harry Stuhldreher told the boys, "is mental. We must be ready to play the kind of a game we have convincingly showed we are capable of playing.

"There has been entirely too much optimistic conversation. You fellows are thinking of the score of a victory you have not earned. You have forgotten Washington was the best professional team last season, a team which defeated the Chicago Bears, and that, with few exceptions, Washington still has its first eleven intact.

Calls Baugh's Case Publicity.

"The Redskins have conducted a clever publicity campaign," Stuhldreher continued. "First we read how Sammy Baugh was injured. He couldn't play more than a few minutes last Sunday in the San Diego game. The Redskins have emphasized they have only 32 players. They have invited a sympathetic attitude much as if they entreat the All-Stars to take it easy and don't run up the score.

"Washington will have a line which will outweigh any combination we put on the field," Stuhldreher added. "You now know Baugh miraculously is recovered. And just to keep the record straight, remember only 11 men play at a time and Washington, with this same underdog psychology, made the Bears look mighty foolish last year. The Redskins whipped the Chicago team which two years before had run up 73 points on the same eleven."

Two Players Injured.

The final practice game Saturday night under the Dyche stadium lights cost the All-Stars the services of two more players. Bob Penaluna, Iowa guard, was the first casualty in the game and yesterday, when a back injury failed to respond to treatment, he was sent to the Evanston hospital. X-rays revealed he had received a fracture of the transverse process of the spinal column and he was placed in a cast which cannot be removed for an indefinite period. Joe Wolf, North Carolina tackle, who injured his knee in the first intrasquad scrimmage, twisted the knee again Saturday night and it is unlikely he will be able to play against Washington.

Pete Pihos, Indiana university end, who possibly may be chosen to start the game Wednesday evening, has a black eye which nearly is swollen shut. The All-Stars previously had lost George Petty, Lake Forest guard, and Paul Governali, Columbia university half back.

Practice Once Today.

The All-Stars will meet this morning for their daily lecture at 11 o'clock. They will work in uniform in the afternoon, and tonight again will permit the Redskins to practice under the lights. Defense for Baugh's passes still is the major subject for the collegians' final practices.

Bill Stern to Air Half of All-Star Contest for NBC

The National Broadcasting company, with Bill Stern, its top sports announcer, at the microphone, will air the last half of the 10th annual All-Star football game in Dyche stadium Wednesday night. Stern will come from New York for the broadcast, which will be sponsored by the Goldsmith Sports Goods company of Cincinnati, O.

Joe Boland, former assistant Notre Dame football coach, who joins the Mutual Broadcasting company staff today, will be on the air for that network at 9:30 p. m.

Station W-G-N will broadcast the complete game and attendant ceremonies, starting at 8:30 p. m. Harry Wismer of Detroit will handle the play by play. He will be assisted by Jack Brickhouse of W-G-N.

PROS PRACTICE UNDER LIGHTS IN DYCHE STADIUM

Plan to Announce Captain Today.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The Washington Redskins, heartened by the dramatic arrival of their star full back, Andy Farkas, raced thru a 90 minute drill last night under the lights in Dyche stadium, where on Wednesday night they will try to run the professionals' victory chain over the College All-Stars to four straight.

Farkas, who had been a stubborn holdout for a month, walked into the Edgewater Beach hotel suite of George P. Marshall, Redskins' president, and signed his contract. Marshall said the player met the terms laid down by the club. This means the $200 weekly fine for absence, amounting to $800, was enforced. The money will be divided among his teammates, according to a previously announced statement.

Expects Good Season.

"It is unfortunate the fine had to be assessed," said Marshall. "I don't think Andy realized the difficulties of a new coach and the importance of the College All-Star game not only to his team, but the National Football league. I believe that he, having come to that realization, not only will play well on Wednesday night, but will have a good season."

Farkas, who has been working out with the University of Maryland football squad, appeared to be in excellent condition at 185 pounds. Tho he will not start in Wednesday's game he will divide the assignment with Bob Seymour. Andy, a hard runner, played a brilliant game in the 14 to 6 title victory last December over the Chicago Bears. He took part in last night's workout.

Rules Out Scrimmage.

Fearful of injuries to his slim squad, Coach Bergman ruled out a proposed scrimmage last night. He sent the team thru its running and passing plays, and also alloted some of the time to defensive tactics. Tonight's workout and a session tomorrow afternoon at Loyola will wind up the pro champions' preparations for the game. The All-Stars' last victory in the series was gained in 1938 over the Redskins, 28 to 16. Since then the Giants, Packers, and Bears [twice] have been victorious.

Baugh, who is making slow progress in his battle to be in top shape, took it so easy in the kicking drill it was believed he may not operate in this department against the All-Stars. The Redskins may limit the strain on Sam's sprained back to pitching passes. If Baugh doesn't do the punting, the Redskins will lose a surprise element which has been a big factor in their rise to the professional football heights—the quick kick. He boomed three long ones against the Bears and these kicks were important items in the 14 to 6 championship victory. Leroy Zimmerman, Baugh's understudy, is the team's No. 2 kicker.

Announce Captain Today.

The Redskins' game captain will be announced this afternoon by Bergman before the squad listens to the semi-final lecture. Another class room meeting will be held tomorrow just to be sure the boys know how to reach Dyche stadium and what to do when they get there.

Bergman yesterday welcomed Dr. Clarence W. [Doc] Spears, who was his boss at the University of Minnesota and who is the successor of Clark Shaughnessy at the University of Maryland. Spears will be the Redskins' press box expert at the All-Star game, his assignment being to telephone his observations to the bench. Dudley De Groot, formerly the Redskins' west coast scout and now coach at the University of Rochester, also will be in the pro champions' corner next Wednesday night, giving aid to Bergman and Assistant Coach Turk Edwards.

The Redskins' head coach, tho he never misses an opportunity to compare his meager squad of 32 to the mammoth All-Star roster, gives an impression of quiet confidence over the outcome. So do the players. But all agree that never has a pro team faced such odds in this series since their 1938 team went into the game.

DAN FORTMANN PLANS TO JOIN BEARS TODAY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 22 (AP).—Dr. Danny Fortmann, veteran Chicago Bears' guard who has been serving on the staff of a Pittsburgh hospital while assisting Clark Shaughnessy in coaching the University of Pittsburgh football team, will join the Bears tomorrow in their Delafield, Wis., training camp.

For seven years one of the finest guards in pro football, Fortmann plans to play for the Bears on Sundays when he is not on duty at the hospital, from which he now has a leave of absence.

Bolden Tries Comeback in Marigold Ring

Nate Bolden, 1937 Chicago intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner, will seek to make amends for a defeat suffered at the hands of Joe Maxin two weeks ago when he returns to action in a 10 round bout against Bob Garner, Louisville, Ky., light heavyweight, in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

The setback by Maxin was Bolden's second in a row and he will have to polish off Garner in good style if he hopes to remain among the topnotchers.

Garner will enter the ring in possession of three straight knockouts. He knocked out Vecie Van, Ben Deathpain, and Jesse Jackson within the last six weeks. These men aren't in the same category as Bolden, but Nate will have to show improvement over the form he displayed against Maxin if he expects to come out on top.

Forrest Gee, Milwaukee middleweight crowd pleaser, is paired with Jack Hill of Bloomington, Ill., in a six round semi-windup on the card. Six round preliminary matches will bring together Johnny Ryan, Detroit welterweight, and Charley Wells, and Jimmy Hunt, former city Golden Gloves 147 pound title holder, and Gene Ward.

Pug Wilson, Gary light heavyweight, will oppose Pete Atkins in a four round opener.

Kola Kwariani and Pete Schu will be principals in the windup bout of Fred Kohler's wrestling show this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. . . . Fred Begun, brother of Promoter Jack Begun and participant in a major battle on a sub chaser in the Pacific, has returned to duty at Miami, Fla., after spending a furlough in Chicago with his wife.

ROCK-OLAS TIE RHEINGOLDS, 1-1, IN 19 INNINGS

The league leading Rheingolds and the second place Rock-Ola Music Maids battled 19 innings to a 1-1 tie last night in Rheingold stadium in the feature game of the Chicago Metropolitan Major Girls Softball league. The contest was called at the end of the 19th by agreement of the managers.

Bernice Maxwell went the full distance for the Rheingolds, allowing eight hits, and Tommy Castador turned in a seven hitter for the Rock-Olas.

In other games, the Benda Coal Co-Eds upset the Gold Crowns in Shewbridge field, 5 to 3, and the Parichy Bloomer Girls defeated the Tungsten Sparks, 7 to 6, in Parichy stadium. Tonight's schedule: Rheingolds vs. Parichys at Shewbridge field and Gold Crowns vs. Rock-Olas at Rock-Ola stadium.

Matches Win Third Over Oklahoma Team, 3-1

The Match Corporation of America softball team defeated Enid, Okla., 3 to 1, last night to make it three straight. Bill Bartz, the Matches' pitcher, allowed only three hits to give his team their 10th straight victory and the 29th of the year. Tonight Match Corporation will play Blue Island in Parichy stadium, Harlem avenue and Harrison street.

AMERICAN DERBY TUNEUP SENDS 5 TO POST TODAY

Occupation Entered in $5,000 Try Too Purse.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Washington Park will go into its final two weeks today with Occupation, Burnt Cork, All Hoss, and Bold Captain racing in the $5,000 Try Too purse as a last tune-up for Saturday's $50,000 American Derby. A nonelligible for the Derby, Sickles Choice, will complete the field of five for this dash of a mile.

Occupation's followers were just about ready to give up on him as a prospect for longer distance events until he surprised every one by running the fastest mile of the Chicago season to win the Dick Welles handicap recently—and while he was accomplishing this dash in 1:36 3-5, Burnt Cork was neck and neck with him right up to the finish.

Slide Rule Training Well.

This splendid performance revived speculation as to whether Occupation might yet be brought up to the task of going a mile and a quarter despite the evidence to the contrary which was presented when he failed so completely in the Arlington classic.

In addition to the above mentioned Derby candidates, the field for Saturday's rich stake will include Slide Rule and probably Bourmont. Slide Rule hasn't been to the post since his victory in the Arlington classic but he has been training well and is expected to be the post time favorite.

Juveniles to Race Thursday.

On Thursday the juveniles will have another event—the $5,000 Prairie State stakes—to prepare for the rich Washington Park futurity which will be run a week from Saturday. A. C. Ernst's Alorter at present is the Futurity choice because of recent stake victories against the top ranking juveniles of the Chicago area. His handlers may choose to send him out Wednesday for a final test. John Marsch's Jezrahel and Occupy, which ran one-two in the Arlington Futurity, may also go in the Prairie State.

The last of the stakes on the turf course—$7,500 Meadowland handicap—is scheduled for Wednesday. The week's program is further embellished by the $5,000 Dark Secret purse on Friday. This is designed as a tune-up for the horses which will run in the $50,000 Washington Park handicap on Labor day. Thumbs Up, Marriage, Rounders, Georgie Drum, King's Abbey, and other good performers are likely to go to the post in this event.

My Pin-Up Girl.

She has no gorgeous wealth of golden hair,
No rainbow robes of silk to please the eye,
She shuns the blazing splendor and white glare
Of all that might extol and glorify:
She lives within a cottage far removed
From all the worldly luxuries that thrill,
But in that simple dwelling she is loved,
And one Child bows submissive to her will.

The beauty that is hers is from within,
A beauty that no other creature knows,
Her heart has never felt the taint of sin,
And all her thoughts are spotless as the snows;
And with one noble task her life is blest:
She feeds the Christ Child at her virgin breast. T. E. B.

POLES PROTEST RED TINGE IN OWI QUESTIONNAIRE

'Unfriendly Attitude' Told in Wire to F. D. R.

New York, Aug. 22 [Special].—The New York state conference of Polish clubs has sent a telegram to President Roosevelt denouncing as "communistic" the questionnaire on the future of Poland now being circulated in several American cities by the office of war information, it was learned today.

The telegram, which was signed by Edward E. Rybicki, president of the conference, and K. Stefan Pomierski, secretary, asserts that the questionnaire raises matters vitally bound up with the well-being of the Polish people in an apparently unfriendly attitude.

A "Communistic Slant."

"It has a communistic slant," it added, "and is not expressive of the sympathetic expressions of the people of the United States to Poland in her present tragic plight."

Circulation of the questionnaire was disclosed last week by members of congress who said Elmer Davis, head of OWI, had explained the survey was undertaken by OWI at the request of another government department which he did not identify.

Distribution of the questionnaire is being conducted by the National Opinion Research Center at the request of the OWI, it was said. Cities in which the questionnaire has appeared include Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Cleveland, and New York.

Questions Called Tricky.

Congressional sources have complained that the 23 questions in the questionnaire are slanted in such a way as to elicit answers favorable to Russia. Two of the questions, it was said, are calculated to promote distrust of the Polish government in exile.

The telegram to President Roosevelt asserts that Americans of Polish ancestry "have fullest confidence in the loyalty and competence of the Polish government in exile, now in London," and "commended Poland's "frank attitude toward both Russia and Germany," as well as her prosecution of the war.

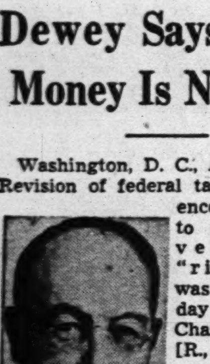
ASKS TAX LAW CHANGE TO AID CAPITAL FLOW

Dewey Says 'Risk' Money Is Needed.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22 (AP).—Revision of federal tax statutes to encourage return to a system of venturesome "risk capital" was proposed today by Rep. Charles S. Dewey [R., Ill.] as a means of reinvigorating and expanding private industrial enterprise after the war.



Rep. C. S. Dewey.

The Chicago congressman said also that loans by banks to local industries offered the most practical solution for reconversion of industry to peace time operations, and he suggested a system of government guarantees on such loans.

Opposes WPA for Industry.

The proposals were made in a letter to the house naval committee in which Dewey, who was assistant secretary of the treasury under President Coolidge, gave his reply to the question as to how the reconversion problem can be met without "a gigantic WPA for industry."

He described as impractical the various proposals that, in the renegotiation of war contracts, allowances be made for post-war reconversion reserves. The naval committee now is studying effects of the renegotiation law. The ways and means committee, of which Dewey is a member, will open hearings Sept. 9 to determine whether revision of the statute is needed.

"American industry had its humble beginning thru what is known as 'risk capital' being available and seeking investment," he wrote.

Incentive to Risk Needed.

"If 'risk capital' is to be induced to resume its historic place in American industrial development, our tax law should be so amended as to offer an incentive for people to risk investment in new and uncertain undertakings.

"Under existing taxes whatever gain is realized on a risk is promptly taxed away and the tax system gives little compensation to whatever loss may be sustained. When the war terminates and returning soldiers are seeking jobs or are desirous of setting up new enterprises themselves, our tax system should be so amended that it will favor these adventurers in trade and industry instead of handicapping the initiative."

Loan Machinery in Existence.

Turning to his suggestion of government guarantees for reconversion loans, Dewey wrote:

"In a great many cases, perhaps the majority, local banks will need no encouragement of any kind to finance the reconversion of local industries. But in order that there may be assurance that capital in the hands of banks is made available to industry, a certain protection may have to be given banks.

"For this purpose I believe that government machinery already in existence could be employed. It could be done simply thru guarantees of loans for reconversion."

Thoro Reviews of Employe Relations Urged by N. A. M.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers asked its nearly 10,000 members today to review thoroly employer-employe relationship policies to ensure maximum war production and post-war prosperity.

C. Donald Dallas, president of Revere Copper and Brass, Inc., headed a committee of 33 industrialists which prepared the association's appeal in the form of a booklet, "Good Industrial Relations."

Sets Out 8 Point Program.

The booklet was designed to express the philosophy and spirit characterizing industrial relations policies and to emphasize that intelligent, conscientious adherence to those concepts in formulating and administering industrial relations would enable all to work together in harmony, the committee said.

As a result of the study—as set out in the booklet—an eight point program of definite employment policies was formulated, which included:

A considerate and orderly hiring procedure;

Wages in harmony with general levels for similar work in the community and the industry;

Urges Definite Procedures.

Definite procedures for promotions, lay-offs and dismissals;

Specific rules and regulations on hours, overtime, vacations, etc.;

An orderly procedure for considering misunderstandings and grievances;

A specific program and policy for selecting and training supervisory personnel;

Keeping employes informed on company policies and problems;

A written statement of company policies and practices, clearly stated and defined.

EMPLOYMENT IN U. S. PUT AT 63½ MILLION, TOPPING ESTIMATES

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Employment in the United States reached 63,500,000 at the end of June, "which is well above earlier estimates of the total man power required to meet production goals for the home and fighting fronts," the national industrial conference board said today.

The report said that "the labor supply situation has become a national problem of first importance.

"Estimates by man power authorities for the coming 12 months reveal that an additional 3,600,000 recruits must be found to satisfy the needs of the armed forces and the munitions industries."

Jewel Profits Reduced by War Controls

The difficulties of operating a food distribution system under war time mileage restrictions, food rationing, price control, and shortages of merchandise and man power were told stockholders of the Jewel Tea company, Barrington, Ill., by F. J. Lunding, president, in his midyear report yesterday.

Because of rationing and shortages in supplies, sales during the 28 weeks ended July 17, which the report covered, were only slightly ahead of a year earlier, Lunding said. Net earnings were lower than a year ago. Sales totaled $28,422,703, against $27,743,343 a year ago, and net income was $457,053, or 62 cents a share, against $593,752, or 86 cents a share, a year earlier.

Lunding said the reduction in earnings resulted mainly from lower margins caused chiefly by government control of retail food prices, and by higher expenses. The principal increases in expenses came thru adjustments of wages and salaries, increased freight and cartage costs, and additional workers needed to handle rationing procedures. Total salary payments to executives and officers were less than during the corresponding period a year earlier, he said.

Net earnings announced by corporations yesterday follow:

3 CHICAGOLAND PLANTS MAKING PLANE ENGINES

Fourth Will Start Production Soon.

[This is the second of a series of articles on the development of the Chicago area as one of the world's major aviation centers.]

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Three large factories turning out high powered airplane engines and a fourth scheduled to go into operation before the end of the year assure the Chicago area of its dominating position as the supplier of the power plants that send America's war planes swiftly thru the skies on all the battle fronts. More than 9 million square feet of floor space in these plants will be devoted to engine production. Employment is expected to exceed 60,000.

The three plants are adding millions of horse power each month to the power of our war planes and when the fourth plant goes into operation the amount will be lifted greatly. And for good measure there is a plant which has built Diesel engines that have actually powered a civilian airplane, altho it is not producing for such purposes now.

Chicago Has the Materials.

The building of aviation engines is a tremendous job demanding the utmost in engineering skill from management and careful attention to duty from labor. A single engine may consist of 60,000 or more separate parts. They are built of the finest materials—alloy steels, aluminum and magnesium—all of which are available in Chicago. Thus the community that does a good job will have much to recommend it in the continuance of engine production after the war.

The Buick division of the General Motors corporation was the first to start production in the Chicago area. Its plant at Melrose Park, employing more than 10,000 persons and occupying substantially more than a million square feet of factory area, for more than a year has been turning out high powered engines under license from Pratt & Whitney. These engines power most of the famed Consolidated Liberator bombers which are performing with so much distinction thruout the world.

Ground for the Buick plant was broken on March 17, 1941, and by the end of the year a Buick built engine was roaring in a test cell. Commenting on this achievement, Harlow H. Curtice, president of Buick, said recently that only in the Chicago area, with its vast labor pool and its varied resources, could such a feat have been accomplished. Before locating here Buick surveyed the country.

Studebaker Next in Field.

Next in the field was the Studebaker corporation which installed on the southwest side a plant for the manufacture of precision parts. This plant has close to a million square feet and employs four or five thousand persons. The parts from this plant are sent to South Bend, where they contribute to the assembly of Wright Cyclone engines used to power Flying Fortresses. The busy South Bend plant of Studebaker has been rated as one of the most important of the Chicago area war plants.

At Kenosha, on the northern periphery of the Chicago aviation area, a big plant of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation is building Pratt & Whitney engines for fighter planes. This plant employs some 10,000 persons and the floor area possibly exceeds a million square feet.

We come now to the tremendous Dodge-Chicago plant, a division of the Chrysler corporation. It ultimately is expected to employ more than 35,000 persons. Before the end of the year the plant is expected to be sending forth powerful Wright engines for fighting planes.

To Be One of World's Biggest.

When the Dodge-Chicago plant is in full operation it will be one of the world's largest manufacturing establishments, containing more than 6 million square feet of floor space. It will be one of the few integrated aviation engine plants in the country. Steel, aluminum and magnesium will enter the plant as raw materials and come out as engines. Only a very few specialty parts, such as carburetors, will be made elsewhere. The Dodge-Chicago plant was located on the city's southwest side because of the ideal conditions there—conditions which it is said could not have been duplicated anywhere else in the country.

The Buda company at Harvey is the builder of a Diesel radial type engine which already has proved its ability to power aircraft. Further development is expected to continue.

[Another article in this series will be published at an early date.]

Beef Shortage for Fighters Predicted Under U. S. Curbs

The United States faces the worst beef shortage in its history unless the confidence of cattle producers in future government price and production policies is restored, the Livestock and Meat council said yesterday. With the elimination of continued threats of additional live stock ceilings and regulations, producers would be willing to continue producing and feeding cattle, it explained.

The council urged that the government immediately put into more complete operation the principles of meat management recommended by the live stock and meat industry. Unless this is done, the army and navy, as well as civilians, will be short of beef this winter, the council warned.

Council Alarmed by Trend.

"During July, 30 per cent fewer feeder cattle and calves were shipped in the eight corn belt states than in July a year ago," the council said. "That this trend is increasing alarmingly is shown by figures, which are typical, for the four largest live stock markets in the corn belt. These reveal that feeder cattle passing thru the yards during the two weeks ending August 13 were 47 per cent fewer than during the corresponding two weeks of 1942.

"There is reason to believe that of the sharply reduced numbers of animals classified as feeders many actually did not go to feed lots but rather to black market operators. Further, according to United States department of agriculture reports, only 14 per cent of the cattle on feed August 1 are expected to be marketed in December or later, and the department concludes this points to a very short supply of long-fed cattle during the later months of the year.

Normal Conditions Upset.

"Normally, cattle going to feed lots around this time of the year are fed for a varying number of months for marketing during the winter and spring, and later. By this method beef supplies are spread over the year. Present conditions, unless speedily corrected, will make beef a seasonal crop, in great degree. Of major importance is the threat to the supply of beef which will be needed urgently — perhaps even desperately—by American fighting forces this winter and spring.

"Much has been said about the record live stock population, cattle being estimated the first of the year at 78 million head. However, 40 millions were cows, heifers, and calves for milk or milk stock, and only 38 million head were available for beef production

Industry Presents Plan.

"Of this quality, more than one-third were breeding stock that must be retained on farms and ranches to maintain production, and nearly 13 millions kept for beef were calves under one year old. It takes two to three years to 'build' a beef steer.

"Having in mind uncertainty and lack of confidence caused by lack of any over-all, long time, business like government program, the live stock and meat industry has presented to the government, a sound, workable plan to bring order out of chaos. The principles and sound application of meat management are non-inflationary. If allowed to operate more completely, this comprehensive plan would restore confidence to cattle feeders."

NURSES' BOARD.

I am a graduate nurse employed by a hospital at a salary of $90 a month, paid semi-monthly. In computing the withholding tax the hospital adds $30 a month to my compensation, this amount representing maintenance furnished to me. Is this proper?—N. N.

Answer: Yes. The room and board provided a floor nurse is considered added compensation, for income tax purposes, since the nurse is on duty for only a definite period each day and therefore is not staying in the hospital nurses' quarters for the convenience of the employer.

An interne's status is different. The hospital provides his room and board in order that he may be called to duty at any time, and such room and board does not represent taxable income to him.

A special nurse attending a hospital patient is given room or board at the expense of the patient. This, again, is for the convenience of the patient, and the value of the maintenance is not considered taxable income for the nurse.

CIO TELLS ICKES TO BE SAME MAN IN 2 OF HIS JOBS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22 (AP).—A committee of the Congress of Industrial Organizations called on Harold Ickes as petroleum administrator for war today to "adopt the principles and policies of [interior] Secretary Ickes" on an oil company bid for higher crude prices.

Asserting that the petroleum administrator is backng the companies in an effort to put over a 35 cent per barrel price rise, the CIO cost of living committee called the proposal a "big steal" formula.

The statement said Ickes as interior secretary last year blocked a move by the oil companies for drastic lowering of the scale of royalties which producers must pay to the government on production from public lands. The committee said incentive for discovery of new oil producing areas, the same ground on which a price rise is sought now, was advanced to support the royalty cut proposal.

DRUG CHAIN SALES RISE.

People's Drug Stores, Inc., reported July sales were $2,867,721, an increase of 9 per cent above July, 1942. Sales for the seven months ended July 31 totaled $19,602,756, a rise of 11.8 per cent from the corresponding 1942 period.

Packers and CIO to Start Negotiation of Contract

Negotiations for a new contract between meat packers and the CIO Packing House Workers' organizing committee will begin today at a meeting of the union with representatives of Swift & Co. The CIO committee will meet with Wilson & Co. tomorrow. Dates for conferences with Armour & Co. and Cudahy Packing company have not yet been scheduled. The union will ask the packers to provide the workers with tools, helmets, boots and coats, and also for pay for the time spent dressing before and after work, a CIO official has announced.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

Aug. 22, 1943.

FOR many years farmers, sportsmen, and ornithologists have been debating heatedly about the crow. Most farmers dislike the crow because it damages grain fields, particularly spring plantings. Sportsmen have used the crow as a target because they have seen much evidence of how the birds, which they call "black bandits," destroy the eggs of pheasants, ducks, and other game birds. Many conservationists and ornithologists have taken the crow's side of the debate because it has been proved that the bird consumes great numbers of insects and thus counterbalances the damage it does to crops and game birds.

This spring the crows did considerable damage in the cornfields on the Wheaton farm. We have noted areas in two fields which are barren because the crows consumed the corn seeds and seedlings.

Grasshopper Figures.

Despite their depredations, however, the men on the Wheaton farm now are wondering if the crows shouldn't be decorated with a few "service bars" for their destruction of the grasshoppers. These troublesome insects are abundant this year, and the crows are consuming them by the thousands. The ringnecked pheasants also are feeding heavily on grasshoppers, and even the little Bob White quail probably are consuming a few of these insects. But it is the crows which are serving the farmers this season as the major devourer of grasshoppers.

Examinations of the stomachs of all three of these birds prove that the hoppers provide a portion of their diet. Several years ago federal biologists examined the stomachs of more than 2,100 crows collected in 40 states and Canadian provinces. Analysis of these stomachs showed what the birds consumed during every month of the year. It is significant that grasshoppers formed 14 per cent of the crows' diet in July, 19 per cent in August, and 19 per cent in September. In addition, these birds had consumed many other harmful insects, including May beetles, ground beetles, and caterpillars. The rest of their diet consisted of corn, other grains, fruits, and weed seeds.

There is a striking similarity in the feeding habits of the crow and the ringneck pheasant. A study by Minnesota scientists showed that 68 per cent of the ringnecks' diet during September is corn, mostly waste grain which falls to the ground. Eleven per cent of the pheasants' diet in the same month is weed seeds, and 15 per cent is insect life, mainly grasshoppers.

Crows Outwit Foes.

Quail consume grasshoppers, crickets, and beetles, but these smaller birds depend upon vegetable matter for about 85 per cent of their diet.

From these statistics it isn't possible to make positive conclusions on the merit of campaigns to destroy crows. Sporadic campaigns of shooting, trapping, and even dynamiting of the crows' roosts have not appreciably decreased the crow population. Crows are among the most intelligent of all birds, as any sportsman knows.

They are wary of anything unusual in their home woods, and they have a system of warning calls which makes them among the hardest of all birds to decoy.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS who have hotbeds or cold frames in their yards can use such equipment for making small auxiliary gardens which will produce vegetables for late autumn consumption by making plantings inside the frames now. The gardener on the Wheaton farm last week planted Bibb head lettuce and cauliflower in his large cold frame. As long as the weather is mild the vegetables will grow naturally, but when frosts are forecast the glass panes will be used to protect the plantings at night.

The soil in the frames should be well fertilized with animal manure or commercial fertilizer, since cold frame cultivation is intense cultivation, with plants close together. The gardener will thin his lettuce heads to stand six inches apart with only 10 inches between rows. The cauliflower plants will stand six inches apart and be utilized as small heads.

Leaf lettuce can be planted in small patches in cold frames. Other vegetables which can be planted now for this type of cultivation are spinach, radishes, endive, kohlrabi, beets, and turnips.
